Soviets Send Three Men Into Orbit in Space Ship

BOBBY'S BOBBLE — Bobby Richardson, New York Yankee second baseman, bobbles a grounder by St. Louis Cardinals' Curt Flood in the fifth inning of the fifth World Series game today in Yankee Stadium.

Sliding into second is pitcher Bob Gibson who had singled. Phil Linz, the Yankee shortstop, comes over. Umpire is Frank Secory. The bobble opened up the gates for the Cards' two runs in the inning.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union rocketed a space ship into orbit today carrying a pilot, a scientist and a doctor — the world's first space vehicle to carry more than one person. An official announcement said it was sent aloft by a powerful kind of rocket.

As the space ship circled the earth every 90 minutes, the pilot messaged that all instruments were working well, the physician examined his colleagues and they had lunch. The space ship is named Vostok-Sunrise.

Aboard were Col. Vladimir Komarov, the pilot; Konstantine Feoktistov, scientist; and Dr. Boris Yegorov, physician.

The booster rocket sent the space ship into an orbit that ranged from 255 miles to 110 miles above the earth, an official announcement said. Some scientists abroad considered this historic first one more big step in the Soviet race with the United States to the moon.

The United States plans to launch its first two-man vehicle some time early next year.

There was no indication how long the space craft — its size and weight not given — would remain aloft. But the official Tass news agency said this first manned orbit by the Soviet Union since the summer of 1963 was designed to test the effects of weightlessness and other stresses on man on a long flight. This was a hint the craft might break the old record of almost five days.

In the last flight, in June 1963, Lt. Col. Valery F. Bykovsky stayed aloft 54 minutes short of five days and later suffered from various ailments from the long period of weightlessness.

A taped television broadcast from the space ship today showed the occupants smiling. The film was dim and it was impossible to tell the size of the space cabin. All three men wore helmets.

"Two-way radio communications are maintained," said Tass. "The ship's crew report they withstood quite well the launch and the transition to weightlessness. All three feel fine."

Tass said purposes of the flight included: Test the new "multi-seat guided spaceship," check the capacity to work together during space flight of a group of workers, scientific, physical and technical investigations in the conditions of space flight, study the effect of space flight on cosmonauts, and time, showed portraits of the "carry out extended medicobiological research in the conditions of a long flight."

Tass said Vostok was launched at 10:30 a.m. (2:30 a.m. EST).

"All systems on board the spaceship are functioning normally," Tass said.

Komarov is 37, married and the father of two children. Feoktistov is 38, also married and has a small son. The doctor is 27, is the youngest member of the crew. He too is married and has a son.

The announcement 75 minutes after the launching was heralded on Moscow radio and television by chimes that mean something important is coming.

After it had been read, Mos-

Hope for Quick GM Settlement Reported Fading

By A.F. MAHAN

DETROIT (AP) — Hopes for an end this week to the United Auto Workers' strike against General Motors Corp. all but vanished over the weekend as a spurt in at-the-plant agreements died off.

Only two local-level agreements, which supplement the national contract, were reached Saturday night and Sunday, leaving 92 still to go out of 150.

This came in the wake of a Friday-Saturday thrust that lifted local-level agreements to 36, and a forecast by UAW President Walter P. Reuther of a thaw in an at-the-plant freeze.

GM and the UAW reached settlement on a national contract last Monday. It carried widespread gains for workers, including higher pensions, earlier retirement, longer vacations, more holidays and higher wages over the next three years.

Eleven days earlier the union had called a nationwide strike against GM in support of its national contract demands, most of which it won.

No back-to-work order is anticipated until the bulk of local-level disputes are settled. These include such items as ventilation, relaxation of smoking rules, more drinking fountains, company-provision of coveralls and the like.

The walkout has idled almost 300,000 of GM's 350,000 production workers, with 32,000 laid off in the United States and Canada since the start of the strike, now in its third week.

The UAW did not call out members working in GM plants which sell parts to competing Chrysler Corp. and Ford Motor Co. Ford and Chrysler reached national contract agreements ahead of GM without a strike and since have wrapped up all at-the-plant agreements.

CAP Launches Search for Missing Plane

DENVER (UPI) — The Colorado Civil Air Patrol launched a major air and ground search today for a missing single-engine craft with two men aboard.

The patrol had 15 planes in the air and 10 units on the ground in its hunt for the yellow and red Monocoupe plane which left Sky Ranch Airport east of Denver about 1 p.m. Sunday.

The pilot of the plane was identified as Bob Anderson, 20, of Aurora, Colo. The passenger was Larry Kliner, 19, also of Aurora.

The CAP said the plane was last seen making practice take-offs and landings over the East Colfax Airport about five miles away.

Col. Arthur Putz, commanding officer of the CAP, ordered headquarters set up at the Sky Ranch Airport. Rescue teams were searching an area south-east of the East Colfax Airport, east to Last Chance and Deer Trail and north to Brighton and Barr Lake.

ABOARD SOVIET SPACE SHIP — These three men are the crew aboard a Soviet Union space ship placed into orbit around the earth today, according to Tass, Soviet news agency. The men are, from left: Col. Vladimir Komarov, the pilot; Konstantine Feoktistov, a scientist; and Dr. Boris Yegorov, a physician. The space ship is the first to carry more than one person.

Peterson Field Improved For Jet Age Operation

Peterson Field has entered north-south runway last week of the Jet Age.

Now the municipally-operated airport will be able to handle any type of plane used anywhere in the world, following the opening of the lengthened main instrument runway.

The main instrument runway was put into service following a final inspection made by officials from the city, Air Force, Federal Aviation Agency, ADC, FAA, I&M, the engineering firm of Ketchum, Konke, Ryan and Fleming, and others.

Stuart Wandell, airport manager, said the main north-south instrument runway was opened at 9 a.m. Saturday. The south-west-northeast runway, which had been used for overflow aircraft parking, was opened at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The only thing still left to do in connection with the runways include the checking and okay-ing of the instrument and landing system.

The north-south runway was lengthened 1,925 feet in the contract work just finished, plus the addition of two 1,000-foot overruns at either end, making the total length of the runway 13,000 feet. D. M. Jardine had the basic contract for the airport work, which amounted to about a half million dollars.

The northwest-southeast runway, which is 8,500 feet long, was resurfaced in 1962 by Northwestern Engineering Co. under a basic $103,792 contract.

Completed in 1963 was the complete reconstruction of the north-south runway for its then distance of 9,092 feet, plus some grading and drainage work at the south end of the runway. This was done by Wylie Brothers Construction Co., Albuquerque, N. M., under a $549,359 contract.

Improvements at the airport have been high on the list of

Sen. Goldwater Struggles With Policy Issues

by JACK BELL

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona heads into the final three weeks of campaigning still thwarted in efforts to dramatize the back-to-the-Constitution stand he calls the overriding issue in the presidential contest.

In wide-ranging attacks on President Johnson in his coast-to-coast journey, the Republican presidential nominee has tried out a variety of approaches to the voters with results that do not seem to have satisfied him fully.

He has assailed the President for promoting coexistence with the Communists. He has argued with administration officials over the reliability, deliverability and control of nuclear weapons.

Goldwater has pictured himself as a champion of Social Security while condemning the Johnson proposal for tax-financed health care for the elderly. He has called for a five per cent annual reduction in income taxes, promising at the same time to balance the budget.

He has charged the President with "reckless spending" and mocked Johnson as a man who

3,000 in Venezuela Hunt Kidnaped U.S. Colonel

By PAUL FINCH

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — A force of 3,000 police and National Guardsmen pressed the search today for the deputy chief of the U.S. Air Force mission to Venezuela who was kidnapped by Communist terrorists.

A caller identifying himself as a leader of the outlawed pro-Castro Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN) said the terrorists would try Lt. Col. Michael Smolen before a secret tribunal on charges of interfering in Venezuelan affairs.

Worried officials conceded they had no clues in the abduction of the 45-year-old Chandler, Ariz., officer from in front of his Caracas home Friday morning by five armed terrorists.

Identifying himself as Commandante Tulio of the FALN, the caller said the kidnapping was in reprisal for a military crackdown on the FALN guerrillas.

A FALN statement labeled the abduction "Operation Viet Cong." This was a reference to the FALN's previous explanation that it was holding Smolen hostage for a condemned Communist terrorist in South Viet Nam.

Smolen's wife, Marian, of Rockford, Ill., issued a statement saying she "clings to the hope that no harm will come to my husband." Earlier the Smolen family got a call from another self-described FALN spokesman who said the colonel was safe and unhurt.

Authorities were flooded by calls and tips. Weeding through the calls has hampered search efforts.

None of the latest calls, however, repeated an earlier warning that Smolen would be shot

Barry Is Running Against Office, Johnson Claims

By FRANK CORMIER

RENO, Nev. (AP) — President Johnson said today Barry Goldwater sees the government as such a terrible thing that he seems to be "running against the office of president, instead of for it."

Johnson took the slap at his Republican rival as the President swung into what promised to be a 20-hour day of campaigning in five western states — Nevada, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and Idaho.

Goldwater was not mentioned by name. But Johnson, in a speech for the Nevada capital of

Cards Take Series Lead With 5-2 Win Over N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — Tim Lincecum's three run homer in the 10th inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 5-2 victory over the New York Yankees today and lead of three games to two in the World Series.

Tom Tresh sent the game into extra innings in the bottom half of the ninth after Bob Gibson had held the Yanks to four hits and struck out 12 through the first eight innings. Gibson ended up with 13 strikeouts.

McCarver's homer came off Pete Mikkelsen, who relieved Hal Reniff, who had taken over for starter Mel Stottlemyre in the eighth.

Flood walked on a full count. Brock was called out on strikes. White struck out swinging. K. Bover grounded to Linz who grounded to Flood at second. It was out and the players were walking on the field when it was learned that

Siberian 'Spy' Story Only Part of Red Harassment

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON (Special) — The State Department and the Kremlin are "managing the news" about the harassment and manhandling of U.S. embassy personnel traveling to outside of Moscow.

While the two governments have publicly traded strong notes protesting the other's spy activities, neither Moscow nor Washington authorities have the "guts" to tell the full ominous story of what is taking place.

Instead of four incidents involving Americans, there have been more than 40 during the past year with nearly half of these occurring in Siberia near the Soviet-Chinese border.

The big mystery in this "spy-on-spy" affair is why President Johnson and Premier Khrushchev and their aides have tacitly tried to keep the lid on the Russians' shocking treatment of U.S. embassy personnel.

The most recent lurid incident in Siberia, where Soviet secret police forcibly entered the hotel rooms of U.S. and British embassy personnel and pushed them around, would never have been published except for a leak to a newspaper in London.

Once the initial details of this strong-arming were in the open, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy, chief foreign policymaker in the White House, hurriedly held a series of backstages conferences and decided to release information about the Siberia incident and make an official protest through diplomatic channels.

On the recommendation of Deputy Undersecretary of State

Llewellyn Thompson, the department's chief expert on Russia, the two presidential advisers decided that only a bare minimum of details should be released to the American public to avoid creating an emotional anti-Soviet wave in the U.S.

STRANGE GOINGS-ON
Deputy Undersecretary Thompson, a former ambassador to Moscow, even suggested that Secretary Rusk temporarily restrict the activities of U.S. military attaches and other personnel to avoid further incidents before the presidential election.

This extraordinary proposal, now under consideration by Rusk, is being actively opposed by Defense Department intelligence authorities. They are stressing that the only "sure" way the U.S. has of ascertaining first-hand what transpires in certain sections of the Soviet police state is to have military attaches there.

For example: The only information the U.S. has on what is going on between Russia and Communist China in their border area despite now comes from Communist sources in Moscow, Warsaw and Belgrade.

When the U.S. and British military attaches were forcibly seized, they were trying to determine the validity of a reputation statement by Khrushchev to a high Johnson administration official that he expects war with China before the end of the year, probably in December following the presidential election.

The mauling incident took place in Khabarovsk, a major Soviet outpost on the Chinese border. At the time, Lieutenant

Ft. Ord Takes Steps to Fight Meningitis

FT. ORD, Calif. (AP) — The Army has taken drastic measures to curb the spread of spinal meningitis at its basic training facility at Ft. Ord. The measures include the discontinuation of recruit training at the base for four weeks.

The Defense Department said in Washington it had acted on a series of recommendations by the Army's surgeon general, Lt. Gen. Leonard Heaton. Heaton made the recommendations after he met with Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Sen. Pierre Salinger in Los Angeles.

The department said these steps will be taken:

Basic training at Ft. Ord will be interrupted for the month of December. The assignment of new basic trainees to the facility will be suspended immediately.

Trainees at the post now will not be given the usual two weeks' leave after basic training. They will proceed immediately with advanced training and leave will be given later.

Only parents will be allowed to visit basic trainees at the fort. The department said parents will be allowed because meningitis seldom infects older persons.

The department said the measures will be put into effect immediately.

Brown and Salinger and other political leaders had asked the Army to quarantine the base until the disease had been eliminated. Eighty-four persons, either stationed at the camp or relatives of soldiers, have been infected with the disease. Thirteen of them have died.

FIVE FEARED DROWNED

ST. HELIER, Isle Of Jersey (UPI)—Five persons were believed to have drowned Friday night when the 50-foot motor yacht Marcella sank in high seas off the harbor here.

The Jersey lifeboat found no one aboard the drifting vessel in a pass just before the yacht sank. The engines were running but the superstructure and deck fittings had been swept away.

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Commanding officers of Warren Air Force Base Saturday accepted the first of four 50-missile Minuteman ICBM squadrons at the base near Cheyenne.

The commander of the strategic Air Command's 90th Strategic Missile Wing, Col. Floyd Wikstrom, and the commander of the Warren AFB site activation task force, Col. William Todd, declared the squadron officially operational.

The squadron turned over SAC is the 319th Strategic Missile Squadron commanded by Col. John J. Linck.

When the fourth squadron is turned over to SAC, the 90th wing will have 200 Minuteman missiles spread over Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska within a hundred mile radius of Warren.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Here is a time and money-saving hint for mothers whose babies are still in diapers, and who do not have a clothes dryer:

I never hang my babies' plastic pants outdoors where they will harden and crack. Neither do I wait hours for them to dry in the house.

After I remove the pants from the washing machine, I wrap them in a bath towel so it will absorb as much excess moisture and water as possible.

I then place the towel-wrapped pants in the hood of my hair dryer and set it at medium heat (never use hot heat). Within 20 minutes the rubber pants will not only be dry, but as soft as new!

I have also found my hair dryer hood useful in emergencies for drying such things as damp undershirts, baby's bed socks, bibs, and even his pajamas! —Mama Hodge Ladies, I borrowed a pair of little plastic pants and tried this.

The pants dry beautifully in about 20 minutes. They come out nice and soft and warm so that you can put them back on that little baby.

Another thing I found is that if you turn the cap upside down and put it over the pair of pants, which have been placed on a bath towel, they will dry even faster and better. The towel absorbs the excess moisture. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Rough spots on gun barrels or other metal parts have always posed a problem as to their removal without injury to the blue finish. It has been found that this is neatly solved by use of an ordinary typewriter or ink eraser! —Walt Day

Since I do not have any spots on my blue finish... I couldn't try it, but it sure sounds reasonable! —Heloise

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

When you bite into an apple, bite into the top half first, next to the stem. The apple will break out easily because this is the way it grows from the blossom.

Eat the top half first, then the bottom, and there will be very little core remaining. —Al Fonda

Dear Heloise:

Here are a few of my hints: As a decoration I put small, plastic, artificial flowers on each shower curtain ring.

Though it's more expensive, I buy "heavy duty" aluminum foil, wash it with a soapy cloth after each use, scald it well, and use it over and over again.

Plastic bags from the cleaners can be deadly (ladies, always tie these bags in a knot when putting them in your garbage and always keep them out of the reach of children —Heloise), but they can also be a boon to homemaking.

I wrap things in these bags for storage and seal with tape. They are ideal for storing blankets and out-of-season clothes.

The transparency of the plastic makes things easy to find in a dark attic or top of the closet and dust does not soil the garments.

These bags will keep vegetables fresh. I even wrap up my tossed salad ahead of time, bowl and all! —Mrs. W. D. Brown

Dear Heloise:

Here's one I bet you never thought of:

I use the back of my children's school papers (brought home by my five and seven-year-olds) as stationery to write to friends and relatives far away.

This solves the problem of what to do with those precious papers which absolutely must not be thrown in the garbage.

Grandmothers especially love this. It gives them a chance to keep up with the little ones' progress. —Old Friend

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
Spades, 4-2; Hearts, 6; Diamonds, 8-7-4-3; Clubs, A-J-9-7-5-2.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 Spd. 2 Clbs. ?
What do you bid?

A.—Pass. While it is tempting to double, such strategy is not recommended for someone is sure to rescue. If West should now run to hearts and partner doubles that bid, you will not know what action to take.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable. You have 30 part score and as South you hold:
Spades, A-9-7-6-5-4-3; Hearts, 9-4; Diamonds, A-Q; Clubs, 7-6-5-4.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 Spd. Dbl. Re-dbl. 2 Dia.
2 Spds. Pass 3 Hrts. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Despite possession of the seven card suit, our preference is for a pass. Partner's redouble does not necessarily show spade support. A three heart bid, however, must designate a very good suit. When you bid two spades, ignoring partner's redouble which calls for your pass on the next round, partner should have gathered that you had a very big spade suit. Nevertheless, he chose to bid hearts, and that would be our choice for the final trump.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
Spades, K-5-3; Hearts, A-J-6; Diamonds, A-K-10-7; Clubs, Q-8-3.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 N.T. Pass Pass 2 Clbs.
Pass Pass 2 Dia. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. When partner passed your one no trump bid he made it clear that there was no hope to go places. He is now merely competing for a part score with some very weak hand containing perhaps five diamonds.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
Spades, A-Q-J; Hearts, A-K-6-2; Diamonds, 10-8-4; Clubs, J-7-4.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 Spd. Dbl. Redbl. Pass
Pass 2 Dia. ?

What do you bid now?

A.—There is no doubt that you are going to go to game, but there is no necessity for haste.

A bid of two hearts will serve the purpose, for a new suit by responder is forcing for one round. On the next round you will support spades.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
Spades, 8; Hearts, J-9-8-6-4-3; Diamonds, 10-9-7-4-2; Clubs, Q.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 Spd. Dbl. ?
What do you bid?

A.—Pass. It is poor tactics to anticipate that the double of the one spade bid will be left in, and a bid of two hearts is not recommended as offering safety. With hands of this kind it is better to let nature take its course.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
Spades, K-10-7-3; Hearts, K-8-4; Diamonds, J-10-8; Clubs, A-J-8.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 Hrt. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—You have 12 points and a balanced hand. After a previous pass it is our practice to respond with two no trump, which is not forcing. The lack of a full diamond stopper should not be a serious objection with this type of holding.

Q. 7—As dealer you hold:
Spades, A-9-5-3-2; Hearts, K-7-6-5-4-3; Diamonds, A; Clubs, 6.

What is your opening bid?

A.—One spade. On hands of this type, where considerable bidding may be expected from other players at the table, it is better policy to treat the heart suit as though it were the same length as the spades. In this way both suits may be shown in the most economical manner during the competition.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
Spades, K-8-2; Hearts, A-Q-4; Diamonds, A-7-3; Clubs, K-10-6-4.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 Clb. 1 Dia. ?

What do you bid?

A.—While this hand contains the textbook requirements for a jump to three no trump, our own preference is for a cue bid of two diamonds which is forcing to game. This might more readily lead to a slam in the minor suit if partner's hand is slightly unbalanced, a slam which might not be available or no trump.

Palmer Lake Historical Society will meet Thursday, Oct. 15, at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Mrs. Rogers McDonough will talk on "Camping Westward," based on her grandmother's diary, written when she came to Colorado in 1871. This diary was the background for Mrs. McDonough's book, "Wagon Wheels to Denver," and her recent article in Montana Magazine, as well as several of her talks before a number of different groups. She will display some photographs, interesting items of the period and the original diary. Refreshment hostesses are Mrs.eryl Finerock and Mrs. Meryl Finerock and Mrs. Raymond Purcell. The public is invited to attend the event.

Gilbert Krueger has returned home from Memorial Hospital, where he has spent the last 10 days.

A bridal shower was given in honor of Miss Emily Pierce, of Monument, Tuesday, Oct. 6 at Little Log Church Fellowship Hall. Hostesses were Miss Pat Pierce, Miss Roberta Pierce and Miss Elaine Lavelett.

On Friday, Oct. 9, Miss Pierce, daughter of Mrs. Mary Margaret Pierce, will marry Kenneth Snodgrass, of Virginia, now stationed at Fort Carson.

The ceremony will take place at 7:30 p.m. at the Little Log Church. The Rev. Russell Jones, will perform the marriage ceremony in the presence of just the immediate family. Miss Mary Pierce will be her sister's maid of honor and only attendant. Sgt. Whitson, of Fort Carson, will be best man and Mrs. Frank Pierce will preside at the organ. The bride will wear a white lace gown and carry white carnations. Following a short honeymoon the young couple will live in Colorado Springs.

Russians Still Want Ex-Allies Out of Berlin

By JOHN O. KOEHLER
RLIN (AP) — Former U.S. foreign policy adviser Robert D. Murphy thinks the Soviet Union is as determined as ever to drive the United States and its Allies out of West Berlin.

Murphy said in an interview here Sunday he believes the present absence of pressure in Berlin results not from a Soviet desire for an entente with the West but because of Soviet difficulties with Red China and Moscow's other international problems.

"I think that their determination is just as positive today as it ever was to drive us out of West Berlin," Murphy declared. Murphy was political adviser to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower during World War II and to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, then military governor of the U.S. Zone of Germany, when the Russians blockaded Berlin in 1948. He retired from the U.S. Foreign Service in 1959 and is president of a glass company.

Murphy said if the Russians should blockade Berlin again, the United States should break it by force.

"I think our position would be shattered if we did not," the former international troubleshooter for Presidents Roosevelt and Truman declared.

Murphy also advocated firm action if the Communist close East Berlin to Allied military personnel in uniform. He said the U.S. government seems prepared to agree to a denial of allied access to the Soviet sector and that this would be "simply another step backward in the process of forcing us out of the area."

"I think that goes further than that because I believe that this Eastern sector has to be opened up in one way or another, and I think it can be done over a period of time," Murphy said.

"I think this wall must disappear. I believe that if they understand that to be our determination and objective, the chance of getting it will be much greater than if we just walk away as we have in the past."

Murphy said he thought now may be a good time because of the Kremlin's problems, to negotiate permanent and acceptable access rights to West Berlin without bringing the East Germans into it.

"I also think that we should study carefully our own possibilities of exerting certain pressures on them," Murphy said. He added: "I don't believe that we should stand idly by whenever there seems to be an opportunity for the rollback which has been talked about so much in the past but has never been implemented."

"Certainly we should not have an acceptance of this whole Eastern European situation because sooner or later the wheel will turn and there will be opportunities to put pressure on the Soviets and cause them to relinquish their hold on some of these areas."

"Now East Germany probably is going to be a very difficult decision for them to make, but eventually I would think that circumstances would develop and that would enable the West to either force them out or show them the wisdom of getting out."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

EXERCISE AND "LEAKING" VALVES
C. P. writes: "Will playing football make a leaky valve worse?" We assume this young man has rheumatic heart disease with a scarred valve that no longer opens or closes properly. With contraction of the cardiac muscle, the outward flow of blood is partially obstructed. When relaxation occurs between beats, some blood leaks back into the ventricle.

Exercise will not make the valve any better or worse but it creates a strain on the heart muscle, which is forced to work against a handicap. It compensates by enlarging, a symptomless process that leads to a false sense of security. The individual continues to overexert because nothing adverse happens. So far as he is concerned, the old ticker is taking everything in its stride.

But there is a limit to how large the heart can get. The situation soon becomes analogous to writing checks on a bank but never putting in enough money to cover the account. The day of reckoning finally comes in both situations. The individual becomes short of breath and develops dropsy.

Relief is obtained with rest and the use of digitalis and a diuretic. The muscle improves but never returns to normal size. Many persons with this condition are willing to undergo heart surgery to correct the valvular defect.

Playing football is fun but is not as important as it appears to be. A better policy is to spare the heart by not overexerting. This does not mean the youngster needs to become an invalid. It means using common sense by walking instead of running, taking the elevator instead of walking upstairs, and getting enough sleep and rest. When the organ is spared in this way, it might last a normal life span.

But this is not all. The heart should be checked every year. X-rays will show whether the organ is enlarging. The time may come when surgery is needed. Meanwhile, infections should be avoided, especially those caused by streptococci.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Mom Campaigns For Election Of Ted Kennedy

LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP) — Of regal bearing and patrician beauty, the lady in the white mink hat strode purposefully to the microphone. She dug into her handbag, fished out a pair of horn-rimmed glasses and a crumpled piece of paper, and smiled at the audience.

"I've come to tell you my version of my son, Ted," she said, blue eyes glittering with maternal pride, "and why I think you should return him to the United States Senate."

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy was on the firing line again. The 74-year-old mother of the late President, better known throughout Massachusetts simply as Rose Kennedy, was staging another whirlwind stand in behalf of her fiercely competitive children.

The setting was the auditorium of Central Catholic High School in Lawrence, on a podium just under the basketball scoreboard. But it could just as well have been a National Guard Armory across the line in New York or a television studio in a border city that could beam its shows into both states.

The only woman in United States history ever to be the daughter of a congressman, the wife of an ambassador and the mother, simultaneously, of the President, a cabinet member and a senator, was busy ducking back and forth across the Massachusetts-New York border in high hopes of becoming the mother of two U.S. senators. She's also working for her son Robert, former attorney general who is in the senate race in New York.

Much to the amazement of the local politicians, who had predicted a disaster, an overflow crowd of more than 1,000 turned out Sunday to hear her, despite the World Series, pro football and a sunlit afternoon.

Her voice was firm and clear, except when it came to that fateful day in November. "You all know about Jack, our second son, and how he was inaugurated in Washington and the plans he made for world peace. But Jack is no longer with us..."

The words trailed off, and a sob caught in her throat. But she gripped the rostrum and quickly regained control.

"He has left us," she continued, "a wonderful legacy of purpose and courage. We still have Ted, in whom he confided his heartfelt wishes. I am sure he will be worthy of your trust."

Then she launched into a warm account of the Kennedy children. "We always told them," she said, "that their time and their talents were not to be devoted to self aggrandizement or self amusement but to the services of others. It was only natural that they should choose a political career."

This wife and mother, who had lost three children by violent deaths, who had had another born retarded, whose husband had suffered a paralyzing stroke three years ago, and who now was speaking in behalf of Ted Kennedy, flat on his back from an airplane crash last June, could still swallow her grief and leave her audience laughing.

questioning by Secret Service agents.

The man was found in his home later. He said he hadn't gone near the President. He gave no explanation for the rifle in his car, deputies said. The man was not arrested.

Long Beach police said Friday a telephone company operator told them she received a call from an anonymous man who said:

"President Johnson will not live through his trip through Long Beach."

Police checked the area in nearby Los Alamitos from which the operator said the call had been received but found nothing.

Hubert Declares Anti-Italian Wall To Be Torn Down

By JOE HALL
NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota pledged today the Democrats would tear down an "anti-Italian wall" in the nation's immigration laws.

The Democratic vice-presidential nominee, in a speech for a Columbus Day rally, declared, "the wall is a disgrace to our country's good name," and "a blot on our image abroad."

His schedule called for appearances at Columbus Day parades here and in New York City and attendance at part of the World Series game at Yankee Stadium.

Humphrey said the immigration law "discriminates against many would-be immigrants — against those from eastern or southern Europe, including Italy."

"The law decrees that these Italian and other immigrants are not entitled to equal opportunity to join their kinsmen in our land."

These provisions, the Minnesotan said, are "offensive to millions of Americans of Italian and other extraction."

"Fortunately," Christopher Columbus did not have to show an immigration quota number. "Fortunately, the gate of America was not shut in Enrico Fermi's face. Twenty-two years ago, from Chicago, a message flashed on Fermi's achievement."

"His genius had made possible the first atomic chain reaction. What was this message or his historic achievement? It was this: 'The Italian navigator has just landed in the New World.'"

"Thus, the brilliance of the Italian 'navigator' of the 20th century recalled the courage of the other Italian navigator of the 15th century."

Humphrey promised also that the Democratic Administration would try again to make Columbus Day a national holiday. He recalled that the Senate had passed such a bill this year; it died in the House.

Humphrey was in Washington Sunday taping television interviews, addressing a rally sponsored by scientists and engineers for Johnson-Humphrey and attending the Eleanor Roosevelt memorial dinner.

He told the rally that the views of Sen. Barry Goldwater "pose a grave threat to America's continued leadership in science, technology and medicine."

At the dinner in tribute to Mrs. Roosevelt on the 80th anniversary of her birth, Humphrey said her life was "like a great symphony. It had many varied movements. But it had one underlying theme which always recurred — the rights of human beings."

Tuesday, Humphrey campaigned in New England. Wednesday in Maryland, Thursday in western Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, Friday in Iowa and Indiana, and Saturday in Tennessee and Florida.

WORRY CLINIC

Virginia lost a chance at a good position because of a defect that she didn't even know she possessed. Alas, thousands of fine men and women are held back from popularity and higher salaries because of the same flaw, so scrapbook this case and follow the prescription given to Virginia.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. D.

CASE T-491: Virginia D., aged 20, is puzzled.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I recently applied for the position of receptionist at a dental clinic. 'But I didn't get the job, though I felt I met all the qualifications.'"

"So have you any suggestions by which I can avoid being rejected the next time?"

Since I knew the dental surgeon in charge of the clinic, I later asked him about Virginia.

"Dr. Crane," he said, "you may have noticed that her expression is stolid. She has a poker face."

"Since we deal with child patients, we prefer a girl who wears a cheery smile and who exudes jolly enthusiasm for living."

"Virginia was otherwise very well qualified but it was her lack of a smile that served as her major stumbling block."

Alas, many men, as well as women, wear expressionless masks instead of animated, smiling faces.

"Yes, Dr. Crane," Virginia admitted, "but isn't this my natural appearance?"

We might admit that it is her "habitual" appearance but everybody has the chance to change his facial expression.

Not only do you women employ cosmetics, such as rouge and lipstick to make your face look more youthful.

But you can likewise improve your friendly "image" if you just develop the "smile habit."

For example, a girl who applied for an airline stewardess job was rejected just because her face looked frightened when in its "natural" state of repose.

So the personnel director of the airline firm urged her to smile at herself when she brushed her teeth each morning and also whenever she looked at her

Two Teenagers Threaten Life Of President

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — Two teen-age boys were arrested Sunday night on a charge of threatening the life of President Johnson.

Casper police and Secret Service agents took the pair into custody after they received a report that someone had overheard them threatening to take the life of the President, due here on a visit today.

A police spokesman said the two boys were visiting a patient at a hospital when a nurse overheard them make the threat.

Police identified the youths as Larry Rush, 17, and Ray Edward Smith, 16.

A police spokesman said the boys admitted in a statement that they had made the threats. They were held in lieu of $25,000 bond each.

Both were identified as high school pupils.

Secret Service officials in Denver, Colo., said, "At this point, we don't feel we can take the chance of not filing charges."

Police said the boys were not armed.

Estes Got No Special Favors, Report Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional report says former Texas agriculture tycoon Billy Sol Estes got no special favors from government officials through bribery, political influence or pressure.

However, the report on Estes, now awaiting appeal of fraud charges growing out of the collapse of his financial empire, criticized federal agencies for lack of coordination in various investigations of the case.

James Naughton, counsel for the subcommittee that made the report, said there was no evidence that Estes ever knew President Johnson although he claimed to have met the then vice president once at a Washington reception.

Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater in charging the Estes case in handling wrongdoing in the Kennedy-Johnson administration.

Sen. Goldwater Struggles With Policy Issues

carries a "shopping list" from which he invites voters to select their benefits.

Goldwater has called for a "return of morality" to the White House. He has sparked some of his loudest applause by jibing at Johnson's former association with Bobby Baker and asserting that "the shadow of scandal falls across the White House itself."

While he generally has avoided direct statements on civil rights, he told rallies in the prosperous suburbs of Philadelphia — where the so-called white backlash is presumed to exist — that minorities are running the government under Johnson. He has inveighed against crime in the streets.

These issues have been offered singly and in groups, with careful checks made of the reaction to each. Judging from the scattergun approach the GOP nominee still is using, none has showed up as a sock-walker by itself.

Goldwater keeps coming back to the constitutional issue of "what kind of a country are we going to have tomorrow?" He charges that Johnson has embraced socialism, which he described in Lubbock, Tex., as "not evil" although highly undesirable.

He told an opulent audience at the World Affairs Council in Los Angeles that the people don't want a paternalistic government such as he said Johnson is conducting.

"They are not thinking of how many cars they have in their garages, how well off they are in a great and prosperous country," he said. "They are thinking of preserving their freedoms."

The crowd gave him a big hand when he said he wants to "go back to the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence."

There is some rather widespread feeling among his advisers that if Goldwater had stuck closely to the conservative vs. liberal theme from the beginning, he might have made more headway in efforts to unify his own party and to chip away conservative Democrats from Johnson. A number of associates wish that such matters as the control of nuclear weapons hadn't been brought up at all.

Despite the public-opinion polls that show him running substantially behind Johnson, Goldwater and his aides believe that what he calls "the ghosts of doubt and discontent" with the Johnson administration are abroad in the land and are not being measured by the pollsters.

As for the Republican campaign itself, it is more matter of fact than exciting. Except when organized hecklers have turned up as they did at West Essex, N.J., the meetings fall into a pattern.

The hall is usually crowded, with additional people pushing to get in. The pretty, costumed Goldwater girls are on hand to lead the "We Want Barry" chant. Goldwater gets thunderous applause when he steps to the podium. The crowd roars the roof when he assails Johnson. Then it is over, and the candidate is whisked away.

Lately the GOP nominee has taken to lingering for a while for handshaking and autographing. At airports he has walked over to crowds behind barriers to shake hands, something he didn't do previously.

With a few exceptions, no attempt is made, however, to turn out the kind of street crowds that have greeted Johnson's motorcades. This alone has taken some of the zing out of the Goldwater campaigning.

Weather Stays Mixed Across United States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Weather conditions were mixed across the nation today.

There were subfreezing temperatures in New England, near 30-degree weather in parts of Southern California, rain in Florida and moderately warm air over the Midwest.

At the same time the mercury dropped to 20 degrees in Lebanon, N.H., early this morning. Blythe, Calif., registered 78 degrees.

Showers sprinkled the east coast of Florida and the lower Florida coast had heavy rains. Palm Beach, Fla., was drenched by another inch and three-quarters of rain, bringing the 24-hour total to nearly seven inches.

Peak Travel Near Record

Pikes Peak Highway travel this year has already put 1964 into the position of being the third best since the City of Colorado Springs took over operations in 1948.

Road Superintendent Jack Sullivan said tolls through Sunday put the passenger total through Sunday at 255,696, which is more than the previous third best year of 255,152 established in 1948.

There is still a chance that this year will wind up as the second best year in history since that mark is now held by 1957 with 257,882 visitors. The all-time high of 280,192 was set in 1956.

In spite of a light snow, which didn't interfere with travel, Sullivan said 522 persons went through the toll gate Sunday. The gate is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

FINAL AIRPORT INSPECTION—Here are some of those officials who made the final inspection last week of the improvements to the north-south runway at Peterson Field. The work was improved and the runway is now in use and is capable of handling anything that flies. The inspectors shown here are (from left) Glen Tusler, base civil engineer; Marvin L. Olson, FAA, I & M; Denver; W. J. Welsby, HQ, ADC deputy for civil engineer; and David E. Fleming, of the engineering firm of Ketchum Konkell, Ryan and Fleming.

100 Troops Are Reported Killed In Viet Battle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — More than 100 Vietnamese government and Communist troops were reported killed in a battle Sunday in Tay Ninh Province.

Two U.S. Army men and a Vietnamese officer also were killed in a land mine explosion 28 miles northeast of Saigon, bringing the total American dead in combat in Viet Nam to 203 since 1961.

U.S. military sources said an understrength government battalion was bivouacked near Go Dau Ha, 40 miles northwest of Saigon, when heavy Communist fire raked their position two hours before dawn.

Those who participated in the final inspection of the airport work included: W. J. Welsby, HQ, ADC deputy for civil engineer; Glenn Athey, HQ, ADC deputy for civil engineer; Stuart Wandell, city airport manager; Glen Tusler, base civil engineer; D. M. Jar-

Barry Is Running Against Office, Johnson Claims

Reno, left no doubt about his target.

"One candidate," he said, "is roaming around the country saying what a terrible thing the government is. Sometimes I think he is running against the office of president, instead of for it."

"We here in the West," said Johnson, "know how the West was won. It wasn't won by a man on a horse who thought he could settle every argument with a quick draw and a shot from the hip."

"We here in the West aren't about to turn in our sterling silver American heritage for a plastic credit card that reads: 'Shoot now, pay later.'"

And, Johnson said, the West wasn't settled "in saloon fights or by galling vigilantes" but rather by sober and responsible men and women.

The President spent the night in Nevada, talking to local politicians and resting in the penthouse of the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas.

Roulette wheels whirled and slot machines played their tinkling melody more than 20 stories below him. But he never saw these features of Las Vegas life since his route to and from his quarters was remote from the bustling casino.

The President flew to Nevada after a Sunday that saw him go to church — "The first day of the week belongs to God" — in Goldwater's hometown of Phoenix, Ariz. Later, he did some speechmaking, which wasn't exactly nonpolitical, in Long Beach and San Francisco, Calif.

Big crowds were the rule along the way, especially in the Long Beach area, where the curbside throng probably was as large as any Johnson has seen during the campaign.

But if the President saw more people, he also saw more Goldwater signs. There were more in Long Beach alone than in all the other cities Johnson has visited on his vote-seeking travels.

During Johnson's foray speech a few miles from Long Beach, Goldwater partisans tried to blot out his words with "we want Barry" chants. But they were no match for the public address system at Johnson's disposal.

The Phoenix crowd was a big one, too, and Johnson had an intimate encounter with a Goldwater placard. One held by a young man struck his hat. Johnson said it was an accident. Some other witnesses weren't sure.

Two anonymous telephone calls warning that the President's life was in danger kept Secret Servicemen watchful during his visit to the Long Beach area.

All through the West, Johnson has talked about keeping the peace, maintaining prosperity, showing compassion in social programs, and promoting freedom in government.

In his Reno text, the President proposed "a bill of responsibilities" as a complement to the bill of rights. These were the 10 articles in Johnson's list of responsibilities:

The government must: be prudent and act with restraint; keep the domestic peace and help put down violence; keep peace in the world; lead the world, promote the national economy, promote education, foster conservation, help the aged, insist on civil rights, and be "at all times the voice, the arm and the instrument of the people."

Both in Reno and in another speech prepared for delivery at Butte, Mont., Johnson argued that his administration has "taken giant strides" toward being both prudent and progressive.

He said spending in July and August was $676 million below the amount for the same month last year, while the number of federal employees in July was 25,000 below July 1963.

"This program of frugality does not mean a do-nothing policy," he said. "It is, in fact, our policy to reduce costs, curtail less urgent activities and find other savings which make it possible for us to start new services for the people without wasteful burdens on the taxpayer."

In his text for an outdoor talk at Casper, Wyo., Johnson did something which also was typical of his campaign approach. He talked about a question of local importance.

"When beef prices went into a slump . . . instead of just beefing, we did something for beef," he said.

Explorer 22 May Help in Satellite Work

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Explorer 22 — a target for a beam of light — is speeding around the world in a round-the-poles orbit.

The Air Force says that if the latest Explorer satellite can reflect the light beam, it may lead to a new way of getting a quick fix on possibly hostile satellites.

The Explorer, dubbed Beacon, also will help communications experts probe blackouts in radio waves caused by sun spots.

The satellite shot from this rocket and missile base Friday night into what was said to be "as close to a perfect orbit as you can get." A 72-foot Scout rocket lifted the satellite aloft a few minutes after 8 p.m.

Scientists said it would be 12 hours before it could be known if the satellite could perform successfully its twin experiments.

During the night scientists at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration facility at Wallops Station, Va., were to aim an intense, pulsing beam of light from a laser at the satellite, which is studded with 360 one-inch prisms.

The light from the laser — a device which intensifies light and releases it in a narrow, powerful beam — was expected to be reflected back to earth, where it could be spotted and timed by a telescope near Wallops Station.

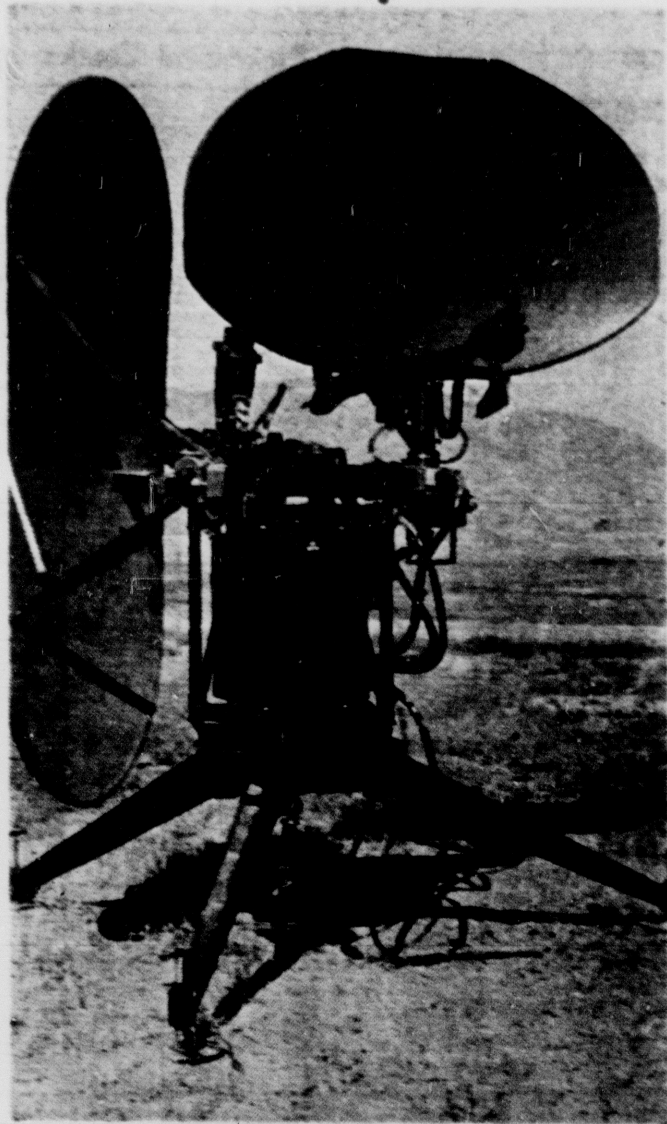

Scientists believe the laser's reflected light can be tracked more accurately than a radar beam's reflection. If the system proves practicable, lasers might be used to spot and track satellites more swiftly and exactly than radar.

The second experiment involved sending radio beams from aboard the 116-pound satellite back toward the ionosphere, the electronic blanket which envelops the earth high above the stratosphere.

Storms on the sun's face, popularly called sun spots, tear holes in the ionosphere, and when holes appear, long-range waves, instead of being reflected, escape into space — causing radio blackouts here.

13 Millions See Pieta At World's Fair

NEW YORK (AP) — After being viewed by more than 13 million World's Fair visitors, Michelangelo's priceless Pieta will be shipped next week into a protective steel and cloth cocoon for the winter, under present plans.

Officials at the Vatican pavilion, where the 16th century sculpture has been on display since the fair opened its first season last April, said numerous groups had requested that the work be displayed when the fair is closed for the winter.

There were suggestions that the marble likeness of the Virgin Mary cradling the body of her dead son be moved to the Metropolitan Museum of Art or St. Patrick's Cathedral for display through the winter.

"Each time it is moved the risk of damage is increased," said the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Timothy J. Flynn, spokesman for the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York.

"The only responsible thing to do is what we're doing," he said.

A pavilion spokesman said the statue, brought here from the Vatican by ship for display during the two six-month fair seasons, will be covered with a super-soft synthetic fabric, hidden behind a drop cloth and enclosed in a wire mesh cage connected to an ultrasonic alarm system.

All locks on the pavilion doors will be changed starting this week and private police will stand guard night and day.

Electronic precautions will be taken against damage by a sudden temperature or other climatic change.

Christopher Kiernan, pavilion executive administrator, said that only one of the pavilion many doors will be in use. The three keys to that door, he said, will be given to himself and two clergymen affiliated with the exhibition.

Russells Says JFK Murder Report Wrong

LONDON (UPI) — Earl Bertrand Russell, Nobel Prize winner and head of the British "Who Killed Kennedy?" committee, said Saturday the Warren Commission report contains "grotesque contradictions, fabrications and deletions of evidence."

Russell said in an article published by the Communist daily Worker that the Warren Commission "assumed the guilt of (Lee Harvey) Oswald and did not include the question: 'Who killed the President?'"

Russell, a 92-year-old philosopher and mathematician, listed four "outstanding failures" of the commission report:

—The alleged murder weapon was lighter, shorter and had different markings from the weapon sent by the Chicago mail order firm.

—Witnesses who heard more than three shots and who state that the shots came from the area of the underpass are ignored.

—Two eyewitnesses to the murder of (patrolman J. D.) Tippit are discounted because their description of the murderer is distinctively different from that of Oswald.

—The commission report falsely states Jack Ruby denied attending a meeting at the Carousel Club with Tippit.

Russell said he sent the article to the Worker because major London newspapers refused to print it.

Worker Killed In Soup Machine

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A worker was slashed to death in the whirling blades of a soup company tomato vat early Saturday.

Ferenc Nagy, 25, a Hungarian refugee, fell into the four-foot deep tank while cleaning it with a hose at a Campbell Soup Co. plant.

The vat was used to break up tomatoes for soup. At the bottom were six 18 inch long blades, are arranged like those in a fan, used to agitate the vegetables.

Response to Reeths

The famous showman, P. T. Barnum, is credited with stating at one time: "No one yet lost any money underestimating the taste of the American public." This cynical observation is too severe and certainly not true. But we are reminded of it as we read the letter by D. S. Reeths of the Air Force Academy in today's Open Parliament section.

Mr. Reeths is questioning our recognition that once more political maneuvering and diplomatic intervention have cost a price beyond redemption. But we in the newspaper field are not unfeeling and these things do not pass unnoticed. Every now and again we cry out, voicing our thoughts and letting our readers know that we are sensitive to what is happening. But we cannot cry all the time.

And we must report the news. Mr. Reeths is questioning our editorial judgment in giving large space to the World Series and the war in Viet Nam. Mr. Reeths is entitled to his opinion and there is much to commend it. Certainly, the deaths of American boys are of greater meaning and permanent impact than a particular home run in a particular game.

But, at the moment, American readers of newspapers don't think so.

Now, there is no way to please everyone in putting the news together in a newspaper. If we feature the shooting down of the helicopter, and explain that it was shot down by friendly forces after they had been mistakenly attacked by the marksmen in the flying machine, there will be many who will object, claiming that we are trying to discredit our armed forces. Or perhaps they will say that we are trying to fan the flames of hate in order to turn a small war into a big one.

So, quite frankly, we don't try to please everyone when we give importance to stories. We do try to be fair. And the war in Viet Nam has been grinding on and on, one blunder after another, a great tragedy. We've given it almost constant space daily for months.

And, to be fair, let us concede that in war there are thousands of such incidents. This is one of the things that makes war so terrible. Good, clean, honest men are shot down and the matter is incidental. A statistic. No newspaper ever printed can begin to convey the horror, the senselessness, the waste, the viciousness, and that occurs daily in war time.

The mind reels under repeated injustices. We become injured to the pain and the anguish. Yet every time a life is snuffed out in Viet Nam or on any other foreign battleground, that life is gone forever. And it comes a shattering hope and plans, a stunning silence, the tight-lipped, dry-eyed

Free Speech

Freedom of speech is not a matter of being able to express the popular view. Freedom of speech invariably relates to the right to express an unpopular sentiment; to bring out hidden, but relevant facts; to support one's own position, though one stands alone in doing it.

Schlafly vs. Carter

If Mr. N. J. Carter (whose letter to the editor appears elsewhere on this page) wishes to discredit Phyllis Schlafly's book: "A Choice Not an Echo" by the quibbling little item he reproduces in his letter, we believe he will find himself poorly advised.

Apparently Mr. Carter feels that because he was willing to sell his freedom and independence for a government hand-out, such a procedure is justified. But he is correct that the plowing up and killing policy, inaugurated by the New Deal was not put on in a compulsory manner at first.

These things rarely are compulsory at the outset. They are offered to people with a political payoff as the reward. Then, when people have succumbed to the temptation, the matter becomes continuing and compulsory. And this has been the history of the federal government's intrusion in the agricultural program, as well as in other fields.

What the government subsidizes, it can control. Indeed, this is a famous Supreme Court ruling dating back to the 30's in which the destruction of crops and livestock was followed by compulsory restraints.

Mr. Carter doesn't like to face up to the fact that the money he received in exchange for his destruction of the bounty of nature, was in the form of money, wrested by force from the taxpayers of the nation. He was a receiver of stolen goods. And he apparently doesn't understand that this is so obviously immoral and wrong that even an alleged escapee from a mental institution viewed it as "looney."

Mr. Carter is correct in objecting to the statement that the farmers were forced at the beginning to adopt the government policy. They were not forced; they were bribed. Some resisted the temptation and continue to resist it. But most succumbed.

And this was one of the terrible blights that descended on the nation. For we had always taken for granted that the farmers of this country were rugged, individualistic and wholly honest. The so-called "farm bloc" could be counted upon to be conservative in its views, both politically and otherwise. Now the farmers of America are divided. Some are as ruggedly independent as they ever were. But they face a losing battle as more and more of their brothers in toil submit to the yoke and accept the regimentation of their farms and labor in exchange for a guaranteed wage at the expense of the taxpayers.

Obviously, if the free market had not been intruded upon by the government, the result would have been quite different. Instead of mammoth surpluses of grain and other food stuffs stored away at an annual storage fee alone of more than $8 million, farmers would have found that they could not sell all they produced. Hence, they would have been forced to curtail production. There would have been less produced, hence no reason to plow up any third row of cotton, nor any reason to kill the little pigs. As prices would have risen after this reduction in production, then the farm area of the economy would have again assumed an even keel.

It has not done so to date, nor will it, with government continually dabbling in bribery to keep the farmer happy.

The alleged propaganda of the book "A Choice Not an Echo" is largely reliable and factual. And the arguments against the book arise from those who wish to continue getting something for nothing.

Those who favor a fair return for a fair amount of work or production are highly in favor of Phyllis Schlafly's book. Nor is this a matter that is

NEWS HEADLINES

To the Editor:

I am writing to you in regard to your edition of the Gazette Telegraph for October 7.

There is something I don't quite understand and I would like your help in clearing this up for me. I would appreciate it very much.

I am referring to your headline of the above dated issue, "Tresh's Homer Gives Yankees 5th Inning Lead," and below it in smaller print, "Five Yankees As Copter Is Shot Down in Viet Nam."

Why is this? The way this reads to me is that a baseball game is more important than the lives of five American soldiers who died fighting for our country. To me, this seems as though you think that the public is more interested in a ball game than in what has happened to five of our soldiers.

I am not referring only to your paper, the majority of the papers are like this, along with radio and TV. "Why?" is what I would like to know. Is there a reason why a ball game should have priority in the headlines over the deaths of some of our GI's?

I am not just referring to this incident, this happens all the time and will probably continue.

This probably seems like a small thing to you, but to me it almost seems disrespectful.

I am writing this to you in all sincerity, and if at all possible would like a reply. Thank you.

'A CHOICE...'

To the Editor:

A book published by Pere Marquette Press, titled, "A Choice Not an Echo," which is supposed to be distributed in the millions, which I have read, is supposed to be of aid to the Goldwater campaign, and its author is supposed to be one "Phyllis Schlafly." After reading the book, I doubt if even the extremist Mr. Goldwater would publicly endorse the book, because its contents were evidently never designed to appeal to

PIG IN A POKE

To the Editor:

Perhaps it is all well and good to protest: the levying of a new tax, the discontinuance of a favorite TV program, the construction of a billboard between either startling or new. Indeed, the 1963 president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce carried on a merciless speaking campaign during his term in office in which he accused the federal government of committing bribery for votes in favor of socialism.

It is Mr. Carter, not Miss Schlafly, who is underestimating the intelligence of the American people. The people are sick of all this socialist pabulum that has been poured over them for so many years. Whether they are well enough informed to understand these abuses is open to question. But the fact is that with each passing year more and more Americans are becoming better informed.

What is really at stake is our system of moral values. Materialists, like Mr. Carter, think it doesn't matter how a person gets his income, so long as it is forthcoming. Others object strenuously to being treated like dependents by a paternalistic government. They are beginning to say so in ways that are being felt.

It's Up to You

A Timely Example

By H. E. KERSHNER, L.H.D.

The experience of Germany shows that the best way to maintain prosperity and full employment is sound money, balanced budgets and no deficit spending. Exactly the reverse of this was urged upon Germany by our own state department after World War II. This bad advice was rejected by Prime Minister Adenauer and his minister of economics, Ludwig Erhard. These brave and resolute men said "No" to General Clay and his advisers in the early post-war years when they were urged deficit spending to get Germany on her feet.

Although West Germany had suffered more severely than any country in Europe and was heavily looted by the Russians of most of her movable wealth and then flooded with twelve million refugees from the East, she nevertheless refused the tempting program outlined by her American advisers. I was told by a top man in Chancellor Erhard's office a few years ago that the German officials knew they had nothing after the war and that their country had been laid waste, but they nevertheless refused to adopt unsound fiscal policies. They firmly decided not to spend more than their income. However small it might be, they would live within it. The people knew they could expect nothing from government because government had nothing. They knew that if they avoided starvation and kept a roof over their heads, it would be as a result of their own efforts. Everyone decided to do his best, those who had jobs worked hard in order to keep them; those who had none were willing to do anything in order to get a start. They were willing to go anywhere to get a job and did not insist on having a job similar to one they had previously held. They would take any kind of job to tide them over until they could get something better. With everybody doing his best, in a very few years Germany became the most prosperous country in all of Europe if not in the world. Astounding economic expansion and full employment resulted from sound money, economy and balanced budgets.

Furthermore, the German government had the good sense to repeal the hampering restrictions that had bound business and to start selling the government-owned industries back to the people. There was a general movement away from government and back to freedom along with economy, sound money, and balanced budgets. It produced a miracle of economic prosperity, perhaps the greatest the world has ever known.

If we only had the good sense to do likewise in our country, we could find employment for all of our idle workers as Germany did, and like Germany, we would have to import workers from other countries in order to supply needed manpower. All this we could do without increasing our national debt and at the same time, make steady reductions in the vast amount we owe. Thrift, sound money, balanced budgets, and work will preserve our solvency, employ our idle, maintain our strength and lead on to greater economic expansion and prosperity.

By FRED G. CLARK and R. S. RIMANOWICZ

In the theater at the Hall of Free Enterprise at the New York World's Fair, a multitude of people have acquired "instant learning" by attending a short play entitled "Mr. Both Comes to Town."

The action takes place electronically on the walls of the theater as the audience follows it by turning the swivel seats.

Many people have come back again, bringing with them family and friends who, they said, "must not miss it."

The plot revolves around our most important current economic problem: job security with higher wages.

The situation involves a shoe factory that had to shut down because production costs had priced the shoes out of their markets.

Labor and management have not been able to agree on an hourly productivity schedule.

To the rescue comes a wire-sculptured personality, named Mr. Both, so-called because he is both of the people found in every gainfully employed person — the hard-boiled customer who wants to pay as little as possible, and the stubborn producer who wants the highest income he can command. He actually separates himself into two people.

Mr. Both starts "at the beginning" explaining why every member of the audience is also Mr. Both with conflicting desires.

By taking them into a classroom, a movie theater and a shoe store, he shows them why and how they have driven away their customers.

'Instant Learning'

The trouble is not high wages and high profits — in fact, the wages and profits could and should be higher.

The trouble is high labor cost per pair of shoes.

If more shoes are produced per hour, the plant can reopen and wages can be increased.

Mr. Both is not controversial — he is educational.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating, and the proof of the effectiveness of this 17-minute presentation is found in the scientific audience-reaction study made by Charles Hull Wolfe Inc. of New York City.

Using the most modern approved methods this study found out what people believed before and after seeing the show.

One of the three basic issues was "Those who urge greater productivity have little concern for the worker or his security — only for the owners and profits. Is this true or untrue?"

Before seeing the show, 57 per cent of the people believed this to be untrue.

After seeing the show, 83 per cent of the people believed this to be untrue.

Put another way, before the show 43 per cent thought that greater productivity exploited the worker.

After the show, only 17 per cent thought so.

In the field of opinion change, this is extremely high, and it only takes 17 minutes.

This display is one of several reasons why the Hall of Free Enterprise is credited with imparting "instant learning" in the supposedly most dismal of all sciences — economics.

TO DR. BOARDMAN

To the Editor:

This is really an open letter to Dr. Boardman. I write it to the Gazette Telegraph because I do not know Dr. Boardman's new address, but I suspect he will see this here.

I was very surprised to hear that your chapter in Chloride has ended. It is to me a very lonely thought not to be able to think of you and Mrs. Boardman in My Motel, surrounded by your grandchildren and loved ones. I don't know where you're going but wherever it is, if it has any community at all, it will be the richer for your being there.

The hours I spent in your classes at Freedom School this summer were warm and memorable ones for me — your delightful sense of humor coupled with your vast knowledge have given me many happy hours to remember and think about.

So wherever you and your lovely Dawn are starting again, I can't help but feel it appropriate for me to say with all my heart, good luck and good health to you in Freedom.

Of This and That

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Well, here it is 10:30 p.m. I generally have my column written by this time and am ready to hit the sack. I used to always say "hit the hay," but I picked up "hit the sack" expression from our two sons, who served in Uncle Sam's Navy, one during World War II (Roosevelt's War) and the other during the Korean War (Truman's Police Action).

The reason I'm late getting started tonight is because I have just returned from making a talk to a group of soldiers at the Cheyenne Shadow Service Club at Fort Carson. This isn't the first time I have talked at the Fort and it seems it won't be the last, for I have already been invited back.

The boys make a wonderful and an enthusiastic audience, and if I catch them right after pay day, they buy an armful of my books. If there's one thing I'd rather do than talk, it is to sell books written by my favorite author — little old poet, me.

All in all, it was a most enjoyable evening, topped off with coffee and cakes.

On the drive home I composed a bit of doggerel, it could hardly pass as poetry, but I have to think of something when I'm driving. Here it is:

WHO EATS MUST SWEAT
Or Somebody Sweats for Him

We must sweat work before we eat
No matter how averse we feel.
We either work, or else we cheat.
For someone must produce our meat.

Then let it not be said of you, let not the word spread round the town, that when there was a job to do you took the info sitting down.

Then I got to thinking about progress and what a good thing it is to see the town growing busier and more beautiful every day. Then I got to hoping they wouldn't carry progress too far. Some people make a fetish of change for change's sake and believe any kind of change is progress. This ain't necessarily so.

An example of this is "progressive education," wherein change became progress and education was forgotten. We should all be grateful that, at long last, this type of "education" seems to be on its way out. Another example is the

A VICTIM OF PROGRESS

Cold and bitter blew the gale
And frigid was the sky.
My feet were numb on the frozen trail
And bitter cold was I.

And fiercer blew the snow,
As on I munched my stubborn way
With thirty miles to go.
Thirty miles of barren waste,
The wind was never stilled—
Slowly, slowly I made haste,
My very bones were chilled.

My thoughts dwelt on my cabin warm
And electric gadgets neat;
There I'd find shelter from the storm
And turn a knob for heat.

For I'd been sold a bill of goods
About a year before;
Modernity had hit the woods,
In fact, was at my door.

Electric lines ran through the hills
And the salesman sold me good
Automatic stoves and grills
That burned without no wood.

Completely sold on modern junk,
I filled the cabin full.
Electric blankets on my bunk,
An electric taffy pull.

Sure, I bought the rascal out,
He was a tickled put.
The nuggets that I paid the lout
Would fill a bucket up.

The ancient stove I'd used so long
I gave an Eskimo;
My axe and saw went for a song—
I was glad to see them go.

Now as I plodded wearily,
And half inclined to freeze,
My thoughts returned right cheerily
To my cabin in the trees.

Six long weeks had I been away,
But soon I would be back.
And till springtime would I stay
Within my cozy shack.

I'd pull the electric heater high
And crawl into my bed;
I'd turn the blankets up to "high"
And cover up my head.

"I'll thaw out," my theme song rolled
As I bucked the arctic pass;
But many men have dreamed of gold
And woke to find it brass.

And when I reached my cabin fair
All weary, cold and sore,
I found this simple message there,
Slipped slyly beneath the door:

"You owe us such a trifling sum
This hurts us like the deuce,
But you must pay your minimum
Or we shut off your juice."

Right wildly then I looked around
And sorry was my plight—
No wood, no axe, no match I found,
And my lighter wouldn't light.

Stranger, when you find me here
In grim death's icy clutch,
Make a note of this somewhere:
Progress can be too much.

Theta Alumnae To Make Plans For Projects

The Kappa Alpha Theta Alumnae club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. D. McClure, 517 Penrose Blvd. The annual local welfare project including a three-fold program will be on the agenda.

Hostesses for the evening workshop for welfare will be Mrs. Jack Walden and Mrs. W. B. Carrico. Miss Gladys Bell, Alumnae District President from Denver, will be a special guest.

The welfare project this year will benefit the El Paso County Welfare Department with the making of layettes for infants, to be distributed to the needy by the welfare department; the Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center with the making of useful articles for therapy purposes; plus the gift of money for cookies for the program; and the Chadbourne Spanish Mission, which will receive clothing and shoes donated by the Theta families.

All Thetas in the Pikes Peak region are encouraged to join in these projects. Further information can be had by calling Mrs. Raymond Holt, president, 635-5267 or Mrs. L. E. Gustafson, 636-2660. The next planned event for the Theta Alumnae will be a dinner and dance with husbands and guests on Nov. 7 at the Dublin House.

Toastmistress Club to Dine At Mancini's

Pikes Peak Toastmistress will hold the regular meeting at Mancini's at 6:30 p.m., Thursday.

Table topics will be conducted by Mrs. Clarence Kersting. Toastmistress will be Cleta Kimberlin. Speeches will be given by Jane Curtis, Val Varela and Betty Craig.

Any woman interested in Toastmistress is invited to call Mrs. Lydia Johnson for information and reservations. Reservations should be made by noon of Wednesday.

Membership Drive to Be Staged by VFW Auxiliary

A busy fall schedule is being assembled for members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Pikes Peak Post 4051, Veterans of Foreign Wars with their 1964-65 membership drive underway and Mrs. Franklin Ripley and Mrs. Robert E. Anderson as team captains. Plans are being made for two dinners to be sponsored by both the Post and auxiliary for patients from the U. S. Veterans Hospital, Denver who will attend the football games at the USAFA Academy on Oct. 17, and Nov. 14.

According to Mrs. Garvan B. Harris, president, the auxiliary is also making plans for a trip to the Ft. Lyons Veterans Hospital in November.

Under the auxiliary chairmanship of Mrs. Harry Lewis, members will again assist with the addressing and stuffing of envelopes for the National Foundation March of Dimes through the local El Paso County Chapter. This participation in the annual March of Dimes drive is one of three major community service projects to be undertaken this year.

Three members of the Auxiliary are actively engaged in this drive as volunteer workers including, Mrs. Margaret B. Hallman, Mailers chairman; Mrs. J. Howard Sentena, co-chairman and Mrs. Frank Witek of Security, chairman for the Security - Widefield area and have just returned from a two day meeting in Kansas City, Mo., attended by approximately 300 campaign workers and officials of the National Foundation March of Dimes.

Headquarters for this regional meeting and workshop was the Continental Hotel and was attended by representatives from Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, Wyoming and Missouri.

Ernest M. Frost, national director for fund raising was the general chairman for the session.

Other important speakers included Charles B. McCabe, advisor to the March of Dimes president; William Russell, director of chapters; Mrs. Arthur S. Hotch, Massachusetts state adviser of the Mothers' March volunteers; Dr. Robert W. Collette, chairman of the Medical Advisory Board of the Denver Chapter of the March of Dimes and Glenn Thomas, regional director gave a summary of the conference.

Among the Colorado Springs workers attending this session were Charles A. Closson, El Paso County Chapter March of Dimes chairman; Mrs. I. C. Johnson, executive secretary; Mrs. J. Carter Culley and Mrs. Arnold McLean.

Mrs. T. G. Brokaw was hostess to the auxiliary last week at the October covered dish luncheon according to the cancer chairman, Mrs. Lester Van Druff, in charge of the afternoon sewing on cancer dressings, members completed three dozen articles. This work is done by the Auxiliary for use by area residents under the guidance of the local chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Attending the luncheon and assisting with this worthwhile program were Mrs. Robert Fuller, Mrs. Alvin Dilts, Mrs. Harold N. Boatright, Mrs. Lee Vandeman, Mrs. Irene Cardin, Mrs. Estelle Evans, Mrs. Arthur M. Anderson and Mrs. Lester Van Druff, chairman; Mrs. Imogene Punshon and the hostess, Mrs. Brokaw.

Mrs. Arthur M. Anderson has been named Americanism chairman for the auxiliary and Mrs. Harry Lewis was appointed the resignation of Mrs. Melvin Wilcox.

The next auxiliary meeting will be held on October 19th at the post home. Members desiring information regarding the March of Dimes Envelope work are asked to contact Mrs. Lewis at 634-3917.

Prof. McMullen to Discuss French Theatrical Culture

The Colorado Springs Section on National Council of Jewish Women will have a membership tea Wednesday at 1 p.m. in the home of Mrs. A. J. Nacht, 2313 Condor. A social hour in which new members will be introduced by Mrs. Shirley Francavilla membership chairman, will precede a short business meeting and an especially arranged program planned by program chairmen, Mrs. H. L. Reibschied and Mrs. Bernard Frankel.

Prof. William E. McMullen, chairman of the Drama Department at Colorado College, will explain and illustrate some of the techniques of the Mime School of French theatrical culture.

He has returned recently from sabbatical leave in Paris, France, where he was sponsored by the world-renowned Mime, Mrs. Marcel Marceau at L'Ecole de Jacques LeCoq. Mr. McMullen studied with European theatrical masters on the modern renaissance of this ancient art form as it presently is being developed and performed in the French Theatre.

Prof. McMullen had been a professional actor in the theatre, radio, and television before he became a professor of Drama. He has been a member of the faculty at Colorado College for the past seven years. He subsequently received a master of fine arts degree in drama at Yale University.

Two of Professor McMullen's students, Miss Gayle Heckle Productions this semester. Professor McMullen is directing the production of "Pantomime Complete", his own untitled story, which will be enacted by a Mime and a pantomime chorus.

It will be part of the Homecoming Weekend Celebration at Colorado College on October 15, 16, and 17.

Mrs. Jack Tober, a past president, will install the new officers, who are: president, Mrs. Gilbert Wilson, vice presidents, Mrs. Howard Morrison and Mrs. Shirley Francavilla; treasurer, Mrs. Alvin Israel; recording secretary, Mrs. Jerry Schermerman; assistant corresponding and recording secretary, Mrs. Morton Mendelsohn.

National Council of Jewish Women, the oldest Jewish women's organization in the world was organized in 1893, dedicated to furthering human welfare in the Jewish and general communities, through an integrated program of education, service and social action. The Colorado Springs Section was organized in 1907 and Mrs. Louise Kaufman was the first president.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She Was a Miss-Take!

DEAR ABBY: I am a college freshman. I drew a girls name for the freshman mixer. When I called for her at her dorm I was pleased to find a nice-looking girl with a friendly personality. After one dance she suggested we go somewhere and "talk." I spoke hardly ten minutes when she was all over me. I spent most of the evening trying to talk her out of what she was trying to talk me into. Abby, I want to be pure for the girl I marry, but if this one is any example of what I have to put up with, I am going to have some fight on my hands. How can a fellow act like a gentleman with college girls without getting the reputation for being a square or a cold fish? —SAVING MYSELF

DEAR SAVING: Don't identify all college girls with the miss you got mixed up with at the mixer. Hang on to your gentlemanly instincts and your reputation will take care of itself.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the lady whose husband keeps his first wife's picture on his dresser. There must be lots of us. I have been a second wife for 12 years, and I can sympathize with her. My husband still carries his first wife's picture in his wallet. (None of me.) He named OUR son after his first wife's father. He also has moved a cardboard carton of her love letters around with us every time we've moved. Why don't men who just keep and leave women who need love and affection alone? Please print this. My husband reads your column. I think I have taken enough punishment for a loss I had nothing to do with. —A BLUE DOMESTIC APPLIANCE

DEAR APPLIANCE: If your husband is really the cad you portray him to be, you'd do better hiring yourself out as a housekeeper. At least if you didn't like the place, you could quit.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend with whom I went all through school. I shall call her Mary. Mary has many good qualities, but she doesn't make friends easily. I believe I am her only friend. A few months ago I became acquainted with another girl. I will call her June. June is a very likeable person and has many friends. Mary let me know that she did not care for June, but I didn't see what that had to do with me. Now Mary has told me that if I don't give up June's friendship she and I can't be friends any more. I like them both, Abby, but don't want to make a choice. We are not kids. We are all young married women. What would YOU do if faced with such a choice? —TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: I would choose June. No one has the right to dictate who your other friends shall be.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Big Brown Eyes": Yes, some women have husbands who cheat and lie. Yours confesses to you, which means he only cheats. Big deal! You're only half-safe!

Work Heals

NEW YORK (UPI) — A dose of work has been found of therapeutic value in a Massachusetts State Hospital, reports "Medicine at Work," a publication for doctors.

The 1,200 mental patients were asked if they would help as an emergency staff in case of disaster. Ninety per cent of open-ward patients said yes; so did 61 per cent of those in closed wards. In a later civil-defense test, 200 of them worked serving meals, bathing other patients, carrying messages, guiding visitors. The hospital superintendent said that in many cases the work helped contribute to speedy recovery.

Studies conducted by researchers at Columbia University, Boston University and the University of Illinois showed that portable typewriters could be used effectively in fourth and fifth grade classrooms to improve pupils' work habits, skills in English, mechanics and the writing of composition.

U.S., Red China Are Blasted at 'Neutral' Meet

CAIRO (AP) — The second Conference of Nonaligned Nations ended Sunday with an attack on the United States' policy in Southeast Asia. The final communique also rejected Red China's view that force is necessary to defeat imperialism.

The conference recommended negotiations to neutralize Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam. It called for the withdrawal of all foreign troops in South Viet Nam, where the United States has about 20,000 military advisers trying to prop up the Saigon regime against Communist guerrilla attacks.

It also asked for resumption of the nine-nation Geneva Conference on Indochina to work out a peaceful solution to the strife-torn area.

In addition to these veiled attacks on the United States in Southeast Asia, the communique called for the United States to quit the Guantanamo Naval Base in Cuba. The Cuban delegation to the conference would have preferred a much stronger expression.

The conference also gave a plug to the tiny Puerto Rican independence movement. It asked the United Nations to investigate the situation in the U.S. Commonwealth of Puerto Rico. Puerto Rico has the highest living standard in Latin America.

As expected, the conference asked for the admission of Red China to the United Nations, but other resolutions were aimed directly or indirectly at curbing the Chinese Reds, reported on the verge of testing their first atomic device.

Included were resolutions supporting coexistence and calling for peaceful settlement of all disputes and recognition of each state's present borders and sovereignty. The conference apparently had in mind China's 1962 frontier war with India.

Though the final resolution was markedly unsympathetic to the West, it was clear that such states as Yugoslavia, India and President Gamal Abdel Nasser's host United Arab Republic succeeded in blunting many proposals by such nations as Indonesia and Cambodia.

The 46 member-nations, represented by kings, presidents, premiers, foreign ministers and lesser delegates, pledged their support to the proposition that "peaceful coexistence is an indivisible whole."

The conference also adopted a resolution calling for: A blockade of South Africa because of its white supremacy policies, an end to all nuclear weapon tests and production, and disarmament.

An Indian proposal to send a mission toeking urging the Red Chinese to cancel their plans for atomic tests was killed when Indonesia insisted that similar missions be sent to Moscow and Washington.

U.S. to Tell Germans About War Prisoners

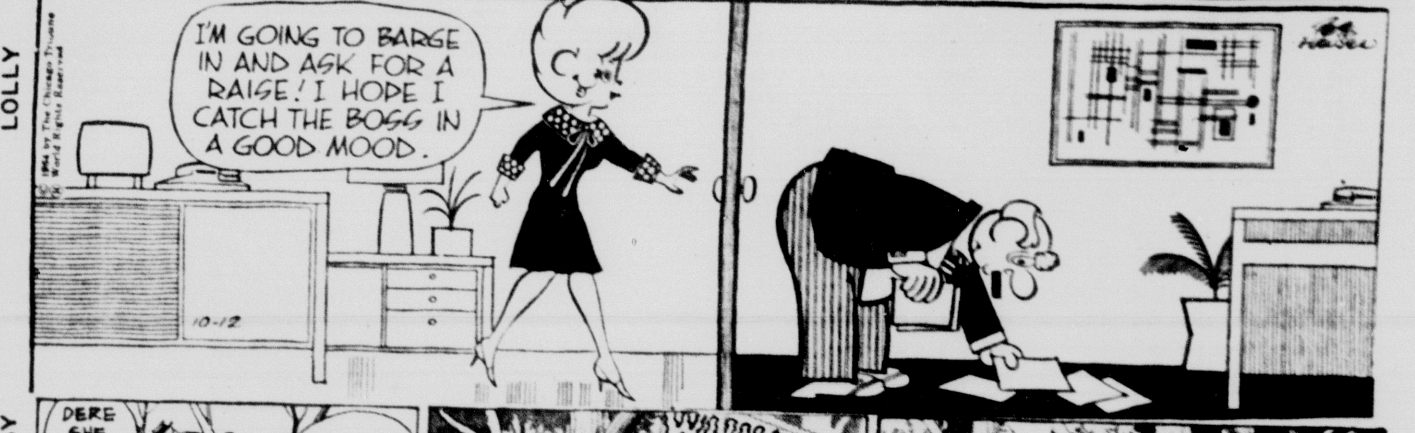

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reportedly going to ship to West Germany the records of more than two million German prisoners of World War II to help in processing their claims for wartime pay, pensions and other benefits.

The United States has been holding the records nearly 20 years under terms of the Geneva convention in the absence of a formal peace treaty with Germany.

Stanley Allen, executive secretary of the U.S. Council of the World Veterans Federation, said the transfer of the records now awaits only completion of an agreement being drafted by the Army and the State Department for submission to the West German government.

Newspaper Boy Has to Battle Spotted Leopard

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)

"I ran across the street when I saw it," said 14-year-old John Edwin Sealey, startled when a spotted leopard appeared as the youngster was delivering his Sunday newspapers.

For the next few minutes, the defanged pet leopard mauled the teen-ager who had the presence of mind to remain still.

From his Catholic church across the street, the Rev. John O'Brien saw the scene. "I couldn't quite believe it," said the priest who called police. "The leopard's tail was twitching and he apparently was holding something."

Shots fired by four policemen cut down the leopard, who had escaped from his cage behind a tourist court where its owner, E. L. Honeywell, an animal trainer from Fort Worth, Tex., was staying.

Young Sealey suffered only cuts and bruises.

Honeywell, who valued the leopard at $3,000, said he did not know how the animal escaped. Honeywell and the leopard, which had teeth but no fangs, and clipped claws, had been appearing at a fair here.

It was also Sealey's first day as a newspaper carrier.

Contradiction Is Called Enemy of Freedom

By SAM CAMPBELL

Contradiction is the enemy of freedom.

Real estate men curse California's Rumford Housing Act, which deprives him and the homeowner alike of trial by jury, but embraces with open arms the zoning laws that are the pattern and precedent of the Rumford Act.

Private employment agencies bemoan the interference of the State Labor Commission in their operations and advertising, but support officers of their own association who call for state licensing "to upgrade standards."

Officers of savings and loans associations warble the merits of free enterprise at service club gatherings, but continue to try to head off competition by invoking of state edict.

Bankers pontificate on a "let's do it ourselves" philosophy, and at the same time propagandize in favor of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Preachers proclaim the purity of God's Law, but lapse into sentimentality, vagueness, and indecision when they try to reconcile "thou shalt not steal" with the Civil Rights Law that deprives the property owner of full title to his own belongings.

Church-goers nod in unthinking agreement with doctrine which when implemented will Sovietize the very building they sit in.

Teachers wonder vaguely what they can do about the growing disrespect for lay and order and, at the same time, lend fervent organizational support to compulsory schooling that rests on a foundation of financial corruption unparalleled since the days of the French monarchy.

Women clack in sympathy with the housewife whom city tyrants force to tear out a remodeled garage, but they warm the chairs at the planning commission to prevent business proprietors from developing their own property.

Men, in order to conceal ignorance, lend vocal support to pending legislation that they haven't even read.

Union members bemoan the results when they are bullied or conned by their own officers, but they steadfastly refuse to use the brains that God gave them.

Businessmen rejoice when the long arm of government smashes down on union wage bids, little understanding that wage control is nothing less than price control.

Under these circumstances, the wonder is less that liberty is lost than that so many vestiges of it persist.

All of the foregoing contradictions have one point in common — the endeavor by individuals to lay some kind of a claim, legal or otherwise, on property that belongs to someone else. Thus everyone is interfering with everyone else, compelling everyone else, enslaving everyone else and is enslaved.

The truth is that freedom is simply a commitment to the idea that each man is entitled to complete choice as to what he does with those things that belong to him and is entitled to NOTHING further. Bluntly, that means "hands off the other fellow's property."

Teenagers Hope Black Cat Will Perhaps Revive

By JOHN FETLER
ARTS CRITIC

Perhaps the Black Cat has nine lives. At least, many teenagers in Colorado Springs hope so. For, the Black Cat, officially known as Le Chat Noir (Black Cat) closed its doors Saturday with a record crowd of 200 in attendance, old and young, mostly young, and it is a guess whether it will stay closed or reopen again.

As advertised, the Black Cat went out with a hoot and a holler, starring Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chatfield, who came down from Boulder just for this occasion, and who formerly used to make up half of the Graces and Chatfield folk singing quartet.

Also appearing on Saturday night was one of the finest audience participation artists, who was called "Little David," and who has tremendous talent for excellent projection, and who, if he can add to it just a bit more of vocal projection, shows excellent talent in this kind of endeavor.

In addition, a number of other hootenanny singers appeared on the program. Friday night, also, there were some 200 patrons present for the windup "Le Hootenanny" program of the Black Cat, as it has popularly been known.

The operation of the Black Cat has, for several years, been a most interesting feature of the Colorado Springs cultural and coffee-house scene. Although it was intended from the very first as a European-type coffee house, it quickly developed into a favorite hangout for high school and college-age youths, since it did not serve any alcoholic beverages, confined itself to empty varieties of coffee, and not the least, provided the best outlet for folk singing and similar talent in the Colorado Springs area.

To operate such a business, however, is too strenuous for just one couple, even tho they have had some help in its operation, and even though financially they always have been in the black. It would be our guess that in two or three years time, as the Antlers Plaza area is developed and transformed, the location of the Black Cat, even though it was on the second floor (kitty-corner from the Antlers) would prove one of the best, and perhaps there will be a way how to revive the Black Cat for the second of its nine lives. At least, many teenagers hope so.

Seton School Holds Capping Ceremony

A capping ceremony was held Sunday for the Class of 1967 of the Seton School of Nursing in the Little Theatre of the Margery Reed Memorial Residence.

Sister Mary Assunta made the presentation of caps following the presentation of the class by Sister Mary Angus, director of the Seton School of Nursing.

Caps were presented to the following: Barbara Bernard, Rebie Bittler, Denise Clark, Katherine Chermak, Nancy Ewald, Sheryl Frey, Bernice Gordon, Linda Hart, Donna Hebbeler, Patricia Huber.

Patricia Jackman, Judith Kennedy, Martha McAtee, Faye Meagher, Linda Mundy, Mary Murray, Edith Novak, Patricia Randall, Jean Reardon, Lynne Tanner, Kennard Treymbig, Barbara Valko, Cheryl Valko, Wilda Viola, and Mary Wolff.

Taking part also in the ceremony were Mrs. Joan Shoverbush, Class advisor; Miss Loretta O'Connell, president of the student organization; and Robert Bates and Miss Munday who provided the music.

A reception following the ceremony was held in the Music Room.

Furniture Firm Window Broken

A window was discovered kicked in at the Peerless Furniture Company, at 130 W. Vermijo Ave., by police making their rounds over the weekend.

Police said the window was broken between 5 p.m. Saturday and 2:50 a.m. Sunday. The window was valued at $35.

A gum machine in the building was smashed and the money taken from it, police said. An employee of the company said he couldn't determine the amount of money in the machine.

The employee said as far as he could tell, nothing else was missing from the building.

Neusteters New Store Supt. Is Announced

Alston F. Davis has been named store superintendent of Neusteters at Cascade and Kiowa Streets.

Davis, who resides at 900 Saturn Dr., will be in charge of all non-selling operations, including maintenance, receiving, marking, delivery, supplies and all details concerning the physical plant.

Davis has profited from the company's policy of promoting within the organization, working his way up from a receiving dock worker to floor manager and building superintendent of the Denver Cherry Creek store.

Now, after eight years with the merchandising firm, he faces one of the most challenging jobs of his Neusteters career; that of working with Ben Lovell, the store manager, to turn the beautiful new building into a smoothly functioning store.

The merchandising business was about the furthest thing from Davis' mind during his younger years. He graduated from the New England Conservatory of Music, with every intention of making music his career. He played with the Denver Symphony Orchestra in 1955 but soon was to find that retail merchandising fascinated him enough to devote the greater part of his energies to it.

"I have gained a working knowledge of all phases of store operation," Davis said. "Working with fine quality merchandise and a fine organization is both interesting and rewarding for me."

He is aiming at Oct. 26 as the opening date for the Neusteters Store.

Four Boys Held After Car Theft, Cafe Burglary

Four boys, two aged 15 and the others 14 and 16 were placed in the Zebulon Pike Center Saturday night after they confessed to stealing two cars and breaking into a cafe at Castle Rock, the sheriff's office reported.

According to Deputy Sheriff Lee Quin the youngsters who are all from Denver, stole a car there and drove towards Colorado Springs. On the way they broke into Moores Drive In and stole about $18.

When they arrived in Colorado Springs the boys told Deputy Sheriff Vincent Denboske that they were low on gas so the hot wired another vehicle belonging to Mrs. Cyril Thompson, 2237 E. Boulder St. and drove off to Pueblo where they were picked up by the state patrol.

Attorney Cites Importance Of UF Legal Aid Service

Attorney Daniel E. Quigley was already familiar with the function of the Legal Aid Society, when he paid a visit to that agency recently. Quigley is a volunteer member of the Admissions and Allocations Committee of the Pikes Peak United Fund.

"As an attorney, I know how urgent it is for the community to have a resource for indigent clients who need representation in court," Quigley told Albert S. Nelson, Legal Aid Attorney.

Nelson handed Quigley the agency budget as well as a proposed budget for a separate Legal Aid Office, independent of the District Attorney's Office. The two offices operate jointly now. The allotted share from the United Fund will be approximately $7,200 of the total budget. The proposed budget showed that the cost of an independent Legal Aid Society could run as high as $16,000, most of which would need to be underwritten by the United Fund.

The Legal Aid Society Board of Directors is studying the advantages and problems of separating the agency.

Asked about his own feelings on such a separation, Nelson told Quigley it would be both expensive and duplicatory in his opinion.

"The function of the two offices, particularly in the child support cases, are so meshed that it would be a mistake to separate them," he said.

A conflict of interest, which affects a small percentage of potential clients, was cited as the main reason some board members want a change in the office.

"If an indigent man needs representation in a criminal matter, I can't defend him," Nelson said. "I am also a deputy district attorney, and the district attorney's office does the prosecuting."

Quigley asked what can be done for the requests for legal counsel, which cannot be handled by the Legal Aid Society.

"Fortunately there are a few lawyers in town to whom I can refer these cases. I won't say that a majority of our attorneys' will take them, but some will," Nelson said. "If the case involves a serious offense, the court will appoint an attorney."

In spite of his full schedule, the occasional waiting list, and the necessity for turning away complicated contested cases, Nelson told Quigley that his office was adequately staffed and performing its function in the Pikes Peak Region.

It will be up to Quigley and other members of the United Fund Admissions and Allocations Committee to determine the amount of money available for this and the other 32 agencies of the Pikes Peak United Fund, following the drive this fall.

Cars Damaged By Vandals Sunday Night

Three cars were damaged in the 500 block of N. Institute St. Sunday night by vandals at 6:45 p.m., police reported.

Rudolph E. Myrick, of 524 N. Institute St., told police his car's left front fender and left front window had been scratched by a rock. Police estimated the damage at $35.

Arthur F. Johnson, of 920 E. Platte Ave., said his car was parked at 514 N. Institute St. when a rock was thrown through the left front door window, and the rear view mirror smashed. Damage was estimated at $20.

Lester B. Hess, of 514 N. Institute St., said the rear view mirror on the left side of his car was smashed. He did not estimate the damage, police said.

None of the three parties could give any information as to the identity of the vandals, according to police.

Mrs. Gertrude Banahan Died at Hospital

Mrs. Gertrude Banahan, wife of Timothy Banahan, 1225 Bristol Ave., died Friday at a local hospital, after a long illness. She had been a resident of Colorado Springs 14 years and was a member of St. Pauls Catholic Church and the Colorado Woman Bowling Association. She had been a resident of Colorado 32 years.

Mrs. Banahan was born in Hoyt, Kan., Dec. 1, 1906. Besides her husband she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Sadie B. Calderwood, of Dennison, Kan.; five brothers, Charles, Luther, Oscar, Robert and Samuel Calderwood, all of Topeka, Kan. three sisters, Frieda Banahan, Betty Woodward and Emma Cress, all of Topeka.

Rosary services will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Nolan Drawing Room. A Requiem High Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Tuesday at St. Pauls Church. Burial will be in the Pax Christi Section of Evergreen Cemetery.

Two Billfolds Reported Lost In Springs

Two billfolds were lost in the downtown area over the weekend, police reported.

The first belonged to James Frederick King, of Ft. Carson. King told police he lost his billfold in the downtown business area between 10 p.m. Saturday and 12:10 a.m. Sunday.

The second belonged to Raymond Brewer, of 510 N. Wahsatch Ave. Brewer said he lost his billfold in the downtown area between midnight and 4 a.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Gertrude Banahan, wife of Timothy Banahan, 1225 Bristol Ave., died Friday at a local hospital, after a long illness. She had been a resident of Colorado Springs 14 years and was a member of St. Pauls Catholic Church and the Colorado Woman Bowling Association. She had been a resident of Colorado 32 years.

Mrs. Banahan was born in Hoyt, Kan., Dec. 1, 1906. Besides her husband she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Sadie B. Calderwood, of Dennison, Kan.; five brothers, Charles, Luther, Oscar, Robert and Samuel Calderwood, all of Topeka, Kan. three sisters, Frieda Banahan, Betty Woodward and Emma Cress, all of Topeka.

Rosary services will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Nolan Drawing Room. A Requiem High Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Tuesday at St. Pauls Church. Burial will be in the Pax Christi Section of Evergreen Cemetery.

Philanthropic Foundation Underway Here

A new philanthropic foundation — the Educators Life Foundation — designed to assist students and a wide range of worthwhile educational programs in Colorado is being developed, according to Dr. William R. Ross, recently retired president of Colorado State College and chairman of the Board of Trustees of the foundation.

The benevolent organization has been formed by the Educators Company for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities. This company, owned, directed and managed by Colorado residents, was granted a charter on Aug. 31 by the state insurance commissioner. Offices for the new company are in the Capitol Life Center, Denver, with the foundation's activities primarily being carried on in Greeley. Directors of the company selected Dr. Ross for his new position.

The foundation, which is entirely separate from the company, has an advisory board of nearly 100 educators and other leading citizens from throughout Colorado. From this advisory board a Board of Trustees is being formed. The trustees will establish the policies of the foundation and determine how and to what extent grants will be made based upon the advice of the advisory board.

Initial capitalization of the foundation will be derived from a designated percentage of the gross premium income from the foundation's affiliated insurance company. The purposes of the foundation are stated in its Articles of Incorporation to be: "The promotion and development of education and research, including specifically the promotion, development and encouragement of young men and women in the educational profession, including teaching, research and educational administration."

Dr. Ross who has been a public school teacher and administrator in Colorado as well as being accolade president for 17 years, said it is hoped the foundation will be able to broaden present scholarship programs. He noted that in Colorado there are several outstanding foundations that are giving invaluable assistance to students and other worthwhile projects.

Dr. Ross said that he personally envisions that the Educators Life Foundation can be of great assistance in some of the present areas of scholarship contributions, but, in addition, explore a relatively new area known as the "blue collar student." The students in this group generally are concerned with technical and vocational education. For many years the former college president maintained that this large segment of young men and women must be provided with challenging opportunities and assistance to help them achieve their potential as students and citizens.

Coveted Hughes Trophy Goes to ADC Squadron

A warm sun-drenched afternoon provided the backdrop for the Air Defense Command to honor its hottest fighter interceptor squadron at Hamilton AFB, Calif., when the 329th FIS received one of the most coveted awards in the Air Force, the Hughes Trophy.

Awarded each year by the Hughes Aircraft Co., the trophy is presented to the outstanding fighter squadron in the Air Force on the basis of aircraft operational readiness, weapons reliability, intercept capability, and flying safety.

Burglaries Reported to Sheriff

Three burglaries were reported to the sheriff's office over the weekend.

Lonnie L. Van Dorn told Deputy Sheriff Vincent Denboske that a pocket watch, a shot gun and most of his clothes had been stolen from his trailer home at the Chief Trailer Court. The value of the missing items is $260.

W. E. Day of the Chimes Cafe, 2260 E. Highway 24 reported that the cafe had been broken into and $230 stolen from the cigarette machine, filling cabinet and cash register. The register was also taken.

The third incident happened at the home of R. K. Nelson, 260 Sherri Dr. Nelson said the house had been prowled during the family's absence and a $35 fountain pen taken. Honey and preserves were dumped on the kitchen floor and a gun discharged. The bullet went through the living room wall and lodged in the garage wall.

Armed Forces News By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON — (Special to the Gazette Telegraph) — Failure of Congress to approve an increase in social security benefits, as well as the medicare portion of the bill, is a big disappointment to retired members of the Armed Forces. The understanding here, however, is that the program will be a major issue of the 1964 political campaign. If President Johnson is elected, then there is a strong possibility for a session of Congress in November to consider the proposal.

Retired Federal employees are keenly disappointed in the failure of Congress to give them an increase in their retired pay. This is understood to be on the schedule for early approval in 1965. In the interim, lobbyists for the retired employees will step up their campaign in behalf of the increase.

The Federal court here dismissed the taxpayer's suit in which he questioned the legality of members of Congress holding Reserve commissions. The court held that it was a matter for Congress to settle. Thus the question was neither approved nor rejected by the court. In the past Congress has held that members could not hold non-regular commissions in the Armed Forces.

Effective July 1, uniformed personnel making a permanent change of station via privately owned automobile, must drive 300 miles daily or take some leave to cover the extra driving time.

The Army has approved a new wash and wear tan shirt as a replacement for the present cotton poplin. It will take about 12 months to get it to all of the troops.

In a surprise move the Army has approved the elimination of high school trigonometry as an entrance requirement for Officer Candidate Schools.

Under plans approved by the Army there is to be an Intelligence Corps Command activated at Ft. Holabird, Md., as part of the reorganization of Army intelligence and counter-intelligence activities.

Enlisted men of all of the Services between the ages of 17 and 22 may now qualify for cadet appointments to the U.S. Coast Guard Academy by taking the Dec. 5 College Board Tests.

Defense housing officials are planning to ask the next Congress for construction of 12,500 housing units for families in fiscal year 1966.

Congress is expected to approve bills in 1965 that would reverse the recent decision of the Comptroller General, in which he ruled that dislocation allowances were taxable.

The Armed Services may have a program for building facilities for retarded service children, if a survey just launched by the Pentagon indicates there is a need for such.

The Armed Services is shortly to implement a recent ruling of the Comptroller General that active duty personnel may ship spare automotive parts, including wheels and spare tires, as part of their household goods.

Marine Corps Commandant Gen. Wallace M. Greene, Jr., is satisfied that the "copter," the doctrine of which is basic Marine Corps doctrine, is living up to expectations in Viet Nam. He recently visited Viet Nam for a personal on the spot reconnaissance.

When the next Congress considers the Rivers Special House Armed Services subcommittee report on medical care for retirees, there will be definite recommendations for a specified percentage of beds for the military retirees and their dependents in all new military hospital construction.

Congressional sources say that Congress will not look with favor on any proposal that would eliminate the present requirement that all retirees have a minimum of eight years of active duty in order to be eligible for medical care.

An indirect approach to a substantial pay increase for enlisted personnel is seen in a Defense study which, if approved, would increase the percentage of enlisted men promoted to the top six enlisted pay grades within a five year span.

In a new directive the Navy says that limited duty Lieutenant Commanders (0-4 in pay grade) must serve at least two years in grade before they can apply for volunteer retirement after completion of the minimum of 20 years of active duty.

Audience Packs FAC For Hawaii Film-Lecture

By JOHN FETLER
ARTS CRITIC

The Audubon Wildlife Film-Lecture series season in Colorado Springs was launched last Friday night at the Fine Arts Center, with the appearance of Dr. Alfred M. Bailey of the Denver Museum of Natural History, in his film-lecture on Hawaii. The FAC theatre was so packed that there was not even standing room. This testifies to the popularity of this facet of the Colorado Springs cultural picture, and promises an equal record attendance for the other film-lectures, that will include such subjects as Teton Trails, Ranch of the Purple Flowers and Land That I Love.

Dr. Bailey, of course, is one of the favorite lecturers for Colorado Springs audiences, and the film he presented, with a wealth of information in his lecture, was not only bright and entertaining, but highly informative as well. The film showed the professional touch in every shot and scene.

The film on Hawaii was particularly useful, in that Dr. Bailey did not confine himself merely to the Hawaii tourist spots. Rather, the film story was a colorful portrait of the islands, ranging all the way along the 1,500-mile chain, from Midway and Laysan far in the West, to Hawaii itself.

And it was done in a manner which only a seasoned traveler, like Dr. Bailey, could do. The film included, the surf-board activities of the Hawaiian sportsmen, some of the finest filming of its type we have ever seen, as the gigantic, azure blue and white-foamed waves hurtle inland carrying the surfboarders at high speed towards their destination on the sparkling sands of the Hawaiian beaches. The film, however, also included a wealth of shots of a great many flowers and birds, so as to give an intimate glimpse not only of the beauties of Hawaii, but of its geographical and wildlife aspects as well.

Woman Injured In Two-Car Crash Sunday

An accident at the intersection of Platte Avenue and Weber Street resulted in injuries to a woman Sunday night, police reported.

Billy D. Yandle, 16, of 221 S. Weber St., was northbound on Platte Avenue when he collided with a car driven by Ronald D. Bryan, 26, of 3151 W. Pikes Peak Ave., police said. The accident occurred at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Sabra Lee Titus, 24, of 1011 N. Weber St., a passenger in the Yandle vehicle, suffered a cut thigh and skull lacerations. She was taken to Penrose hospital for treatment.

Bikes, Power Mower Taken

Two bicycles and a power mower worth a total of $302 were taken from a carport over the weekend, police reported.

Horner L. Jendins, of 2838 W. Kiowa St., told police the articles had been removed from his carport between 7:30 p.m. Saturday and 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

Neighbors contacted could offer no description of the intruders, police said.

Schollander Sets Swimming Record

Associated Press Sports Writer TOKYO (AP) — American swimmers marshaled their forces for another assault in the Olympic pool Tuesday after Don Schollander, an 18-year-old son of Yale, led a medal grab that shot the United States into a quick lead over the Russians in the battle for gold, silver and bronze at the Tokyo Games.

Churning little ripples in the heated water of the National Gymnasium, Schollander forestalled any possible repetition of the 1960 dispute in the 100-meter freestyle final by winning the United States' first gold medal in Olympic record time of 53.4 seconds.

That cracked the mark of 55.2 set by Australia's John Devitt in 1960 when he was declared the winner over Lance Larsen of the United States in a bitter controversy that still simmered long after the Games had concluded.

Schollander's performance capped a day of record-breaking in the pool in which Russia's Galina Prozumenshikova won the gold medal in the women's 200-meter breaststroke. Dawn Fraser of Australia broke the 60-second barrier in the 100-meter freestyle semifinals and the U.S. team won four medals while sending strong entries into the finals of two other events.

Two Arizona lasses, Jeanne Collier of Phoenix and Patsy Willard of Mesa, got the United States off to its fast start by finishing second and third, respectively, behind Germany's Ingrid Kramer-Engel in the women's springboard diving final.

Then, 14-year-old Claudia Kolb of Santa Clara, Calif., broke up an expected 1-2 Soviet finish in the 200 breaststroke, grabbing second place behind Miss Prozumenshikova.

Weightlifter Isaac Berger of Brooklyn, N.Y., completed the U.S. medal harvest for the day, taking second place and the accompanying silver medal by finishing behind Japan's record-setting Yoshinobu Miyake in the featherweight division.

That gave the United States five medals—a gold, three silver and a bronze—to two golds and one bronze for the Russians.

MEDAL STANDINGS

Nation	Gold	Silver	Bronze
U.S.A.	5	3	1
Russia	2	0	0
Germany	0	2	0
Australia	0	1	1
France	0	0	1
Great Britain	0	0	1
Italy	0	0	1
Sweden	0	0	1
Switzerland	0	0	1

More of the same was expected Tuesday as the American swimmers placed five entries in the two scheduled finals.

Gary Dilley of Huntington, Ind., and Jed Graef of Verona, N.J., opened the way to a possible 1-2 U.S. finish in Tuesday's 200-meter breaststroke final by breaking the Olympic record within minutes of each other in the semifinals.

First, it was Dilley, flashing home in 2:13.8 and then in the second heat, Graef clipped the record another one-tenth of a second. Bob Bennett of Long Beach, Calif., the other American, squeezed into the final with an eighth-place finish at 2:16.3.

Miss Fraser, a two-time Olympic gold medal winner, lowered her own Olympic record to 59.9 in the 100-free style, where America suffered its only disappointment as Jean Hallock of Arcadia, Calif., failed to qualify for the final.

Sharon Stouder of Glendora, Calif., and Kathy Ellis of Indianapolis, Ind., reached Tuesday's finals with clockings of 1:01.4 and 1:02.5, respectively. Miss Hallock was timed in 1:02.9.

Breaks Even Series for Cards

Boyer's Sunday Punch Puts Down Yankees, 4-3

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — It was Branch Rickey, now a consultant with the St. Louis club, who once said:

"Luck is the residue of desire."

The Cardinals must have a lot of desire because through the years they have had a lot of luck in World Series play.

It is this residue of desire that helped the Cards win the World Series in 1925, 1930, 1934, 1942, 1944 and 1946.

The 4-3 triumph over the New York Yankees Sunday which squared the 1964 World Series at two victories apiece demonstrated anew that the Cardinal luck — ballplayers call it "breaks" — is still holding out.

In Missouri, they are singing the praises of Kenny Boyer, whose grand slam homer in the sixth inning overcame a 3-0 Yankee lead.

In Lakewood, Calif., and Toronto, Canada, they are rejoicing over the brilliant relief pitching of hometown heroes Roger Craig and Ron Taylor.

In Houston, they are happy over Johnny Keane, who is managing the heck out of the Cardinals, seeking his first world championship in his 27th year of managing.

But in New York, they will tell you that it took a break for the Cardinals to win the fourth game — rare misdeed by the usually sure-handed Bobby Richardson on a sure-fire double play ball that would have ended the inning without a score.

There were two runners on base with one out when Dick Groat hit a routine grounder to the right of second base. Richardson fielded the ball, tried to shovel it over to Phil Linz for what looked like the start of a twin killing.

Let Richardson explain what happened:

"It got stuck in my web. As Phil came across, I hesitated, throwing him off his timing and when I threw it with my gloved hand, (Curt) Flood hit Linz and he couldn't handle the throw."

Instead of the inning being over, the Cards had the bases loaded. Boyer unloaded them two pitches later with a smash into the left field stands. Until then, young Al Downing had a three-hit shutout.

Thus, instead of the Yankees having a chance to end it at Yankee Stadium today, they must return to St. Louis Tuesday for a sixth game Wednesday, and perhaps a seventh game Thursday.

The Yankees' Mel Stottlemyre and the Cards' Bob Gibson, who clashed in the second game, renewed their rivalry in the fifth game.

Stottlemyre came out the winner in the first meeting, limiting the Cards to seven hits in an 8-3 triumph. Although he lost, Gibson was impressive, striking out nine in eight innings, permitting only two runs until he tired in the seventh.

Sunday's victory was credited to Craig, who handcuffed the Yankees with just two singles in the 4-3 victory.

The 33-year-old right-hander took over with one out in the first inning after the Yankees had raked starter Ray Sadecki for four straight hits.

Craig permitted a run-scoring single by Elston Howard, then allowed only one more while fanning eight before retiring for a pinch hitter in the sixth.

Carl Warwick, came through with a single, giving him three pinch hits so far for a share of that Series record, igniting the winning rally.

Taylor polished off the Yankees without a hit over the last four innings.

"I like our club's chances better now than I did at the start of the Series," said Keane.

"Winning this game set us up good. Our pitching is set for the final games, even if it goes the limit of seven. I sure like the way we stand."

Keane admitted that Richardson's fumble of Dick Groat's grounder was the big break of the game.

A break decided the Cards' first World Series triumph, in 1925, against the Yankees. That break came when Tony Lazzeri drove a long foul that missed being a game-winning grand slam homer by a hair, just before Grover Cleveland Alexander struck him out.

In the 1931 World Series, two fluke hits and erratic support behind George Earnshaw accounted for four early St. Louis runs that gave the Cardinals a 4-2 victory in the seventh game against the Philadelphia Athletics.

Her 67 broke the course record for the tournament. Kathy Whitworth and Marlene Hagge took 66s last year on the 6,304-yard, 72-par course. Miss Hagge took 71-71-67-209.

Second was Shirley Englehorn at 73-71-70-214, followed by Miss Hagge at 76-71-70-217.

The Cards also won in seven games in 1934 when the Dean boys, Dizzy and Daffy, turned in two victories apiece against Detroit. But the Series would never have gone the limit had not the Tigers committed 12 errors.

In 1942, a rookie right-hander named Johnny Beazley turned in the unprecedented feat of beating the Yankees twice in the Cards' four-out-of-five success. Joe Gordon threw away the last game for the Yankees when catcher Walker Cooper caught him off second in the ninth inning, spiking New York's final threat.

Two years later, a wild throw by shortstop Junior Stephens helped the Cards score three runs that gave them a final 3-1 triumph over the St. Louis Browns. The 1964 Series will be remembered for Enos Slaughter's mad dash home from first on a hit to left center by Harry Walker. Slaughter scored the winning run in the seventh game, much to the chagrin of Boston Red Sox shortstop Johnny Pesky, who delayed relaying the ball from the outfield.

PLAY SETS STAGE FOR HOMER—Bobby Richardson, Yankee second baseman, went for the ball and shortstop Phil Linz was sent sprawling by the Cards' Curt Flood in the sixth inning of the fourth World Series game Sunday in Yankee Stadium. The play set the stage for Ken Boyer's bases-loaded homer, which beat the Yanks, 4-3.

Richardson's Mistake Costs NY Three-Run Lead, Game Advantage

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Reporters forced four men into corners Sunday. Two relief pitchers with so-so records, a big third baseman and a quiet second baseman.

"Poor Ken Boyer," said the second baseman, Bobby Richardson of the New York Yankees. "He hit the ball pretty good, and it seems everyone's here."

Richardson was taking the blame for the fouled up double play attempt that led to the St. Louis Cardinals' 4-3 World Series victory on Boyer's grand slam home run.

In the Cardinal dressing room, Boyer hugged relievers Roger Craig and Ron Taylor, saying: "These are the guys who won the game."

Craig and Taylor, known more for giving up homers than for preventing them, had teamed brilliantly from the first inning to chop off the vaunted Yankee offense that had scored three runs in the first.

"That has to be the finest relief work we've had," said Cardinal manager Johnny Keane. "It couldn't be improved upon. Craig and Taylor were splendid."

"My curve was sweeping and my control was good," Craig said. "It has to be one of my best-pitched games — Certainly the most thrilling."

"Kenny (Boyer) told me as I came out of the bullpen that I ought to keep the ball low and fast," said Taylor. "I did, and I threw a few curves and sliders. But I kept it low and no change-ups. It was the biggest thrill of my life to help win that game."

Boyer had slammed a high inside change-up by Yankee loser Al Downing into the left field stands with the bases loaded in the sixth.

"You know," said Boyer, "when I rounded third on that homer, I was kind of looking for Clete (his brother, the Yankee third baseman) to say something. He didn't say a word, and I didn't think it my place to say anything. I looked right at him."

Boyer said his Series home run wasn't his most memorable baseball experience.

"Our winning the pennant was," he said. "I'll never recapture that. But the homer helped a lot. I'll certainly take it."

North Carolina football coach Jim Hickey played tailback at William & Mary under Carl Voyles.

Boyer said his Series home run wasn't his most memorable baseball experience.

Irish Best Ever

"The best team we've ever played!" That was the way Coach Ben Martin of the Air Force Academy described last Saturday's opponent in Falcon Stadium—the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame.

After watching his Air Force team go through a frustrating afternoon in which they could muster only 37 yards running against the nation's No. 1 team in rushing defense, and then on viewing the films of the one-sided 34-7 game, Martin had nothing but praise for the Irish.

"I realize that puts them in some pretty fast company," Martin said. "But I feel that's the best the Air Force has ever played against."

He went on to rank this year's Notre Dame team over the great Iowa team played in 1958, the Cotton Bowl host Texas Christian that same year, the fine Navy team with Heisman Trophy winner Joe Bellino in 1960, the powerful Missouri squad which beat Navy in the Orange Bowl that New Year's, and Nebraska and Washington of last season.

"Being just one touchdown down, at halftime (14-7) we felt there was still a chance," Martin said. "But they just overcame the brutal force of Notre Dame."

The brutal force of Notre Dame showed up in the dressing room after the game Saturday, as there could be as many as eight Falcons on the doubtful list for this weekend's third straight home game with Missouri coming to the AFA stadium. Most seriously battered by the Irish were end Fritz Greenlee and safety Lloyd Duncan, who may miss the Mizzou game.

Quarterback Tim Murphy also said he could barely remember playing past the third period after being "tuned-in" by the on-rushing Irish linemen in the second half.

Cheyenne Mountain's Indians, who took a giant stride toward the first championship of the Will Rogers League Friday night with a 22-7 victory over Academy High, will have an opportunity to cause further embarrassment to the neighboring South Central League this weekend.

The infant WRL, which is one of several new AAA circuits in the state, was formed this year out of teams elevated from AA status. Observers concluded that it would be at least a couple of seasons before this new group of top classification schools could compete successfully against teams from an established AAA league like the SCL.

Academy High undressed that theory by mid-September when the Kadets scored three final period touchdowns to defeat Pueblo South of the South Central League, 18-7. Friday Cheyenne Mountain will attempt to give the WRL schools a sweep when the Indians host Trinidad at Harrison High's field.

Comparative scores are, of course, some of football's most useless figures—but, using them as a guide in this instance, Cheyenne would enter Friday's game as a 27 point favorite. The Indians defeated Academy High 22-7, the Kadets whipped Pueblo South 18-7, and a week ago South edged Trinidad 13-12.

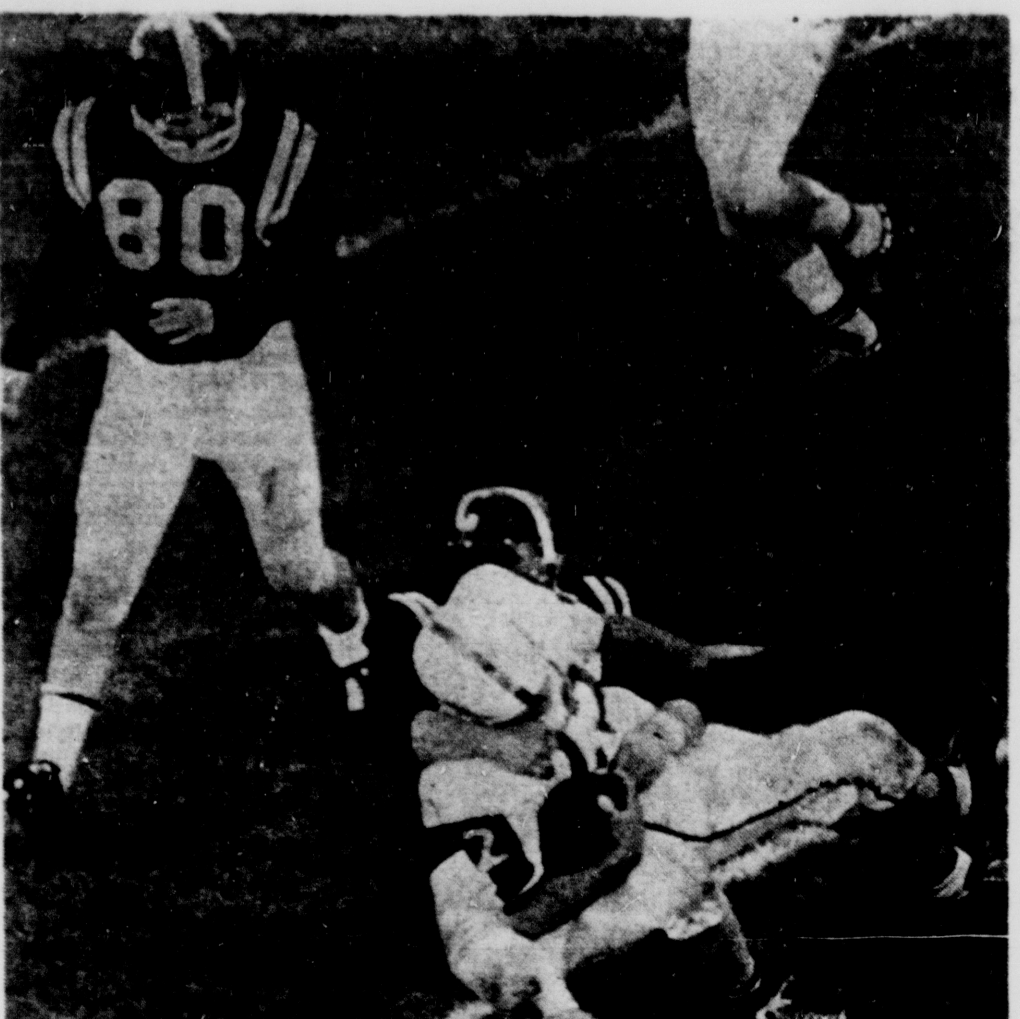

Incidentally, the WRL is not the only new conference to light up some red faces in the SCL. A pair of Southern League culprits also joined the fun, LaJunta whipping South 8-6 and Lamar defeating Centennial, 14-13.

Palmer and East squared matters with that league, however, as the Terrors downed Lamar 20-17 and East shattered LaJunta 26-0.

Still, the newly elevated AAA schools hold a 3-2 edge over SCL foes going into Friday's Cheyenne-Trinidad battle. Should the Miners happen to pull the South Central even this weekend, there would still be a decisive contest. The SCL champion will meet the winner of a playoff game between the WRL and Southern League champs in the quarter-finals of the AAA state championships in November.

"We feel the turning point in the game was when they (Cheyenne Mountain) scored on two long runs," related Air Academy High's head football coach Terry Mackey after the Kadets lost to Cheyenne, 22-7, in a crucial Will Rogers League last Friday.

"We didn't plan to only key on stopping their big fullback (Greg Cramblit) but knew we had to contain their other speedy halfbacks. We didn't and the long runs by McCurdy (Rich) and Heyliger (Doug) killed us," Mackey concluded.

Sluggish Pirates Post Win Over Cathedral in DPL Play

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer
Showing signs of looking ahead to this week's showdown with old nemesis Regis, the St. Mary's Pirates were colorless and lacked zip in their pursuit of Cathedral at Wasson Stadium Sunday as they scored a routine 15-0 victory over lowly Cathedral in a game of miscues. The Pirates were presented with the third period to post the triumph. Chris White scored the first St. Mary's touchdown on a four-yard run. LeRoy Eckhoff, the Bucks kicking specialist, lugged the pigskin around left end for the PAT after a bad snap from center. White scored with 2:11 left in the first period.

Sub-running back Tom McCarthy scored the second TD on a seven-yard dash off tackle with 11:55 remaining in the second period. The try for the PAT failed. The Pirates picked up the two-point safety when they blocked a Cathedral punt with 3:40 left in the third period.

Four scoring opportunities when the Blue Jays gave up the pigskin that many times via fumbles. But the Bucks had to settle for the two TDs they scored in the first half and a safety in

Arizona Gals Grab First Medals For U.S. Olympic Team in Tokyo

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor
TOKYO (AP) — A couple of Arizona girls, Jeanne Collier and Patsy Willard, grabbed the first U.S. medals of the Tokyo Olympics Monday and the Yankee basketball team continued to roll, but an upset and an injury produced two major disappointments.

Miss Collier, pert 18-year-old high school student from Phoenix, won the silver, or second-place, medal in women's springboard diving, just edging out Miss Willard, from Mesa, who won the bronze.

"I don't know how I did it," the elated, 5-foot-1 Jeanne said. "I'm still too excited to talk."

The Americans' swimming and basketball teams continued to dominate their events as expected.

The basketball team, led by Jerry Shipp of Bartlesville, Okla., and Joe Caldwell of Arizona State University pounded Finland 77-51 for its second straight victory.

Shipp tossed in 18 points and Caldwell contributed 16 in the 40th straight U.S. basketball triumph since the sport was introduced in the 1936 Berlin Olympics.

The swimmers put the maximum three U.S. members in the semifinals of both the women's 100-meter freestyle and the men's 400-meter individual medley.

In the women's event, Australia's Dawn Fraser equalled her own Olympic record with a 1:00.6 but said she expected major difficulty from Sharon Stouder of Glendora, Calif.

"I think the American girls, especially Sharon, will be tough in the finals," the veteran Miss Fraser said. "If I want to win, I'll have to set an Olympic record."

Miss Stouder won her heat in 1:02.3, and joined Jeanne Hallcock of Arcadia, Calif., and Kathy Ellis of Indianapolis, in the semis.

Carl Robie, 19-year-old University of Michigan student, had the fastest time in the 400-meter individual medley, 4:32 flat, and moved into the semis with Roy Saari of El Segundo, Calif., and Dick Roth of Alhambra, Calif.

The big news for the United States on the second day of competition, however, was the silver medal by Miss Collier.

She executed an extremely difficult reverse 1½ somersault with 1½ twist on her final dive, moving from third to second place with a total of 138.36 points.

Miss Willard had 133.18 and Sue Gossick of Tarzana, Calif., was fourth with 129.70.

A pretty East German girl, defending champion Ingrid Kramer-Engel, won the gold medal with 145.0 points.

GOLDEN RECORD-SETTER — Don Schollander of Lake Oswego, Ore., displayed his Olympic gold medal after winning the men's 100-meter freestyle swimming event in Tokyo today. He set a new Olympic record of 53.4 seconds for the distance.

Shipp Paces U.S. Olympic Cage Win Over Finland

TOKYO (AP) — Jerry Shipp when Martti Huhani Liimo, topped the scorers for the second and straight day, collecting 18 three minutes remaining in the points as the United States reeled off its 40th consecutive basketball victory in Olympic competition today by whipping a tall-Finnish team 77-51.

Shipp, 6-foot-6 cornerman from Bartlesville, Okla., scored 16 points.

The Finns, who battled on equal terms with the U.S. Olympians throughout most of the first half lost their precision

At that point, Coach Hank Iba began to clear his bench. The United States won its first game 78-45 over Australia.

MAYBE THIS IS THE "SECRET" of why we're able to make charcoal in the open air to use for smoothing out Jack Daniel's.

Charcoal Mellowing calls for hard maple charcoal, rick-burned in the open air. Now, some folks say it can't be made this way. Well, besides stacking the ricks in a special way, you have to know just how to direct water on the charring wood to keep it from burning to ashes. For nearly a century we've held on to this skill. And after a sip of Jack Daniel's, we believe you'll understand why.

Gun 'Savers' Face Charges

JUAREZ, Mexico (UPI)—Two El Paso men who save guns, rare coins and stage-coaches planned to meet with their lawyer today and talk about surrendering to federal authorities who accuse them of amassing a personal armory worth $1 million.

Pedro Munoz, 39, told United Press International Friday night that the weapons are merely "my own personal collection. Everybody has seen it."

The government says Munoz and his father Merced, 64, have violated federal arms registration laws. The Internal Revenue Service filed jeopardy assessments totaling $199,208 against the two Friday.

Last Saturday, customs agents at the Juarez-El Paso international border stripped away door panels of Antonio Carrasco's car and found 32 rifles and 17 pistols bound for Mexico.

The investigation of that incident led to the discovery of an arms cache at the Muno Hardware Store near the Mexican border in El Paso. Agents found tear gas bombs, German machine guns, a 57-millimeter mortar, shotguns, pistols, ammunition and powder.

Treasury agents also found what they called "a fabulous collection" of money at the store and estimated its value at more than $300,000.

London's Subways Thrown Into Chaos

LONDON (AP) — A dispute over subway schedules threw London's rush hour traffic into chaos today.

Service was stopped on lines that normally carry thousands of commuters into the capital. Other lines were running a skeleton schedule.

The dispute started when the London Transport Passenger Board sought to run fewer trains because of a shortage of guards. Drivers wanted to stick by the old system by which occasional trains were canceled when no guard was available. This gave the driver a paid rest.

Black Forest News

By MARLENE MURPHY — 495-2297

Mr. and Mrs. James Hidy and children spent the weekend in Boulder visiting Mrs. Hidy's parents and sister and family, then to Broomfield, Colo., to visit Mr. Hidy's sister and family.

Myra Keith, daughter of Mrs. Martha Keith, is now home from Fitzsimons Hospital in Denver, recovering from recent surgery. She is doing pretty well.

A "Happy Birthday" goes to Mrs. Olga Harris, who has a birthday Saturday, Oct. 10. Mr. and Mrs. Herb Cowan, of N. Black Forest Road, just recently returned from a trip of two weeks and a half to Washington State, Idaho, Utah, Oregon, visiting friends and relatives. They had visited some friends they had not seen in 34 years. Had a wonderful trip and are glad to be back home in the Forest where they have resided for about 18 years.

School menu for Friday will be tuna and noodles, peas, chilled tomatoes, whole wheat rolls, butter and apple crisp.

Mrs. Betty Kneebone, of 209 Baker Road in the Forest, has about five little German Mix Shepard pups to give away anytime now. If anyone is interested in obtaining one please give her a call at 495-2151.

Dr. King's Group Backs Lyndon Johnson

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in its 10-year history, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, headed by the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., is officially backing a presidential candidate — President Johnson.

King announced the backing Sunday. He said the group's endorsement of Johnson over the Republican candidate, Sen. Barry Goldwater, in an effort to defeat "not just Goldwater — but Goldwaterism."

King told members of the Antioch Baptist church in a predominantly Negro section of Brooklyn that the GOP under Goldwater has become "lily white." He said the GOP presidential candidate would "destroy all the great American values."

The Negro minister and leader in the nonviolence civil rights movement called for a heavy Negro vote "to insure not just a victory for President Johnson, but a telling blow against Goldwaterism."

"This is the most critical and crucial election in the history of the nation," King said. Despite telephoned threats against his safety received in advance of his church appearance, there was no trouble.

Conservatives Launch Attack For Save Vote

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Douglas-Home's Conservatives launched a last counter-attack today to stop the Labor party from winning Thursday's general election.

More than 30 Conservative government ministers were ordered to stump the country plugging the theme that a Labor government would bring immense risks to British security and prosperity.

With polls and other pointers swinging his way, Harold Wilson appeared confident that the weekend would see him installed in No. 10 Downing Street as the first Labor prime minister since 1951.

He told a cheering rally in Bradford: "We meet with the Labor party poised for victory and with the Conservatives in a mood of defeatism."

The Daily Mail's national opinion poll gave Labor 45.1 per cent of the vote and the Conservatives 45 per cent with the rest divided among Liberals, minor parties or undecided. This was a one-point gain for Labor since last week.

This would not be enough to give Labor the victory. But the same poll has shown Labor well ahead in 70 or so key districts held by slender Conservative margins where the election will in effect be decided.

Sunday's Gallup Poll put Labor 6 per cent ahead of the Conservatives. Betting odds hardened to 10-3 on Labor, 5-2 against the Conservatives.

One poll delighted the Conservatives, however. A Conservative canvass of Wilson's Lancashire district showed he was trailing his Conservative opponent by 7 per cent. If the Labor party chief lost, his embarrassed party would have to get the holder of a safe Labor seat in the House of Commons to resign so Wilson could win the seat in a special election. Only a member of the House of Commons can be prime minister.

Lord Blakenham, Conservative party chairman, set the keynote for the final surge in his party's campaign. "Anyone who believes that we are not going to wade into the Labor party with all our strength has got another thing coming."

"They're still a Socialist party, led by an avowed man of the left," Blakenham told a campaign conference.

"With Wilson's leadership the Labor party capitulated to the unilateral disarmers and the nationalists. A Labor government would mean a certain risk to our security, a financial crisis, and economic disaster."

Johnson Won't Get Dollar in Denver

DENVER (AP) — No Denver Dollar will be given President Johnson on his campaign visit to Denver today.

The silver dollar, encased in plastic, traditionally is given to visiting celebrities. But a spokesman for the welcoming party said one won't be given the President because his wife got one recently when she visited Denver.

Ramah News

By MRS. HAROLD CLIFFORD

After 47 years of railroad service with the Chicago, Rock Island, Pacific Railroad, Section Foreman Harold W. Clifford has retired from railroad service, effective Oct. 1, 1964, having reached the age of retirement. Clifford started his railroad career as section laborer at Burlington, Colo., Dec. 1, 1916. He worked a while and then was out of the railroad service for about two years, then on Oct. 8, 1923, he re-entered railroad service at Burlington and continued with the railroad until retirement age.

On Feb. 1, 1925, he was promoted to relief section foreman and worked at various places along the Rock Island as far east as Hebron and Fairbury, Neb. Later he was assigned to the position of permanent section foreman at Resolis, Colo., and later he was transferred to Kanorado, Kan., when during the depression of the 1930's a number of positions were abolished. He then returned to Burlington as laborer for a while, but at the same time was relief section foreman and extra gang foreman. In 1937 he was permanently assigned to the section at Seibert, Colo. Later he was work train foreman unloading rail for the steel gang from Flagler to Limon, Colo. In 1942 he was promoted to track supervisor from Goodland to Norton, Kan., and later transferred to Albion to Eldon, Iowa. After this he returned to Seibert as foreman until this job was abolished. In August, 1954 he came to Ramah and served as local foreman until his retirement, a period of 10 years.

Since coming to Ramah, his wife, Isabelle, has worked as local telephone operator and news correspondent. The Cliffords have witnessed many changes in the railroad industry, mainly the coal burning steam engine has been replaced by the modern diesel locomotives, and numerous other changes. Clifford plans to rest for a while and look around. Other than that future plans are indefinite.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clifford spent on Wednesday until Sunday in Erie visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Brecheisen and sons Scotty and Kenney.

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pete King and son Gary Sunday. Those in attendance besides the Kings were Mrs. Josephine Risco, of Fullerton, Calif.; Margaret Helm, Bill Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Friedman, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Freidberg and Marl Alear, all of Denver; also Mr. and Mrs. Nick Pazzin and Richard, Mr. and Mrs. Adam King, all of Ramah.

Mr. Gideon Carner is relief foreman at Ramah since Mr. Harold Clifford has retired.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jackson and children have moved to the Anders property, where Mr. and Mrs. Steve Dudrick formerly lived.

Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Hartwell, of Simla, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Fred Igar to view the beautiful mountain scenery Monday. They ate dinner at Cripple Creek, also visited Victor, and came down Phantom Canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Igar and Georgia, of Matheson, were Sunday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Leach and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Cline of Stratton called on Mrs. Louisa Lamm Monday morning.

Mr. O. C. Carter, who underwent surgery a week ago in Colorado Springs, is getting on fine. Two of his daughters, Mrs. Evelyn Johnston, of Omaha, Neb., and Mrs. Helen Kuebler, of Bozeman, Mont., are staying with their mother while Mr. Carter is in the hospital.

Darrell Clifford, of Colorado Springs, is driving a new car. Mr. and Mrs. Ron Leach were pleased to have Mr. and Mrs. John Wann, of Simla, call on them Sunday afternoon.

A week ago last Friday Gideon Carner took his mother, Mrs. Louisa Lamm, to Denver to visit John Mark Lamm, of Peetz, who was severely burned a while back and is in Children's Hospital. He is slowly improving and was pleased to have company.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cline and two friends of Colorado Springs visited briefly Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clifford.

Mrs. Esther Hope entertained at a turkey dinner Monday noon in honor of her mother, Mrs. India Wyatts' birthday. Those present besides Mrs. Wyatt and Mrs. Hope were Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Stringer, Mr. and Mrs. Huston, Raymond Hope, Mrs. John Wayne and Mrs. Evelyn Hendricks.

Harold Jay Evetts was a recent visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snell.

Skinner Bodhaine was chosen homecoming king and Patty Greenstreet was chosen homecoming queen. The dance was Friday night.

Monday Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benton, of Albuquerque, N.M., and Mr. Benton's sister were visiting in our community Mrs. Benton is the former Mary Pasco.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete McKay spent Sunday at Phillipsburg visiting Richard Noble.

Lyle Tobertson was pleased to have Terry Ashcroft and Ricky Gordon of Simla spend Friday overnight with him. Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Robertson and children, of Simla, were Friday evening dinner guests, the occasion being Lyle's birthday.

Mrs. Charles Hensley and children and Harvey Hardman, of Ellicott, called on Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snell Saturday.

Mrs. Edmondson of Colorado Springs, Mrs. Myrtle Dobson and Mrs. Bessie Snell called on Charles Hensley at the hospital Friday. They report he is resting very well.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pasco, of Germantown, Tenn., were Monday overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Pasco and Michael.

Miss Mary Tamin of Simla, was a Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snell.

Monday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Kascak and Patty were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pasco of Germantown, Tenn. John Pasco, Mr. and Mrs. Pete McKay and Mr. and Mrs. Andy Pasco and Michael.

Randy Snell, of Falcon, and Tim Hensley, of Ellicott, were Saturday overnight guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Snell. Tim is now enrolled in the Simla school and is living with his grandparents.

Mrs. Emmabelle Hartwell, of Simla, and Mrs. Delphine Igar attended a Baptist missionary meeting at Flagler Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Hartwell gave a report on a missionary book.

Educator Will Guide
Job Corps Program
WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Oti Singletary, 43, a Southern educator, is coming to Washington to head the new job corps, a major program in President Johnson's war on poverty.

Johnson's appointment of Singletary, a Mississippi native and University of North Carolina chancellor, was announced over the weekend.

"I'm right excited about it," Singletary said at his campus home at Greensboro, N.C. "Part of the attraction is being able to start practically from scratch."

The ultimate aim is to provide training leading to employment for about one million jobless youths.

Singletary is taking a leave of absence from the university to take the appointment, which ends in February 1968.

Singletary has a wife and three children. He is a native of Gulfport, Miss., and held posts at Louisiana State University and the University of Texas before going to North Carolina in 1961.

Barry Talks About Indians And Arizona

By WILBUR MARTIN

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Barry Goldwater spoke of the Indians of Arizona, their traditions and art. Campaigns and politics seemed very far away.

Most of those who listened were old acquaintances and he interspersed his comments with reminiscences of a kindred interest in the lore of their land.

"I wouldn't have missed being here for anything in the world," the Republican presidential candidate said at a fund-raising dinner Sunday for the expansion of the Heard Museum.

"This is my chance to pay tribute to Dwight Heard and to all of these giants," he said. He named many men in Arizona's past as he spoke of the culture and the crafts of the 13 tribes in the state.

"I think the greatest future in American art will be found in the Indian inspiration," he said. Most of his talk concerned the Kachina dolls of the Hopi Indians, their use in ceremonies and the gods they depicted.

He announced he was donating his own collection of 600 dolls to the museum. Goldwater afterward told a reporter he would not know how to put a value on the collection.

"I've been interested in the dolls since I was 7," he said. "John Rinker Kibby started the collection." He said he had expanded it after he bought them.

Goldwater showed a film he had made in 1939 of a Maricopa Indian woman making a "love pit" to illustrate the craftsman's ship.

He lingered at the $50-a-plate affair to chat with old friends. "I'll be back to vote," he said.

Opposition Party Scores in Belgium

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Scoring heavily in the cities, the opposition Party for Liberty and Progress scored significant gains Sunday in elections for 23,000 municipal council seats.

Incomplete returns from around the country showed the Progress party making inroads into the strength of the Social Christian and Socialist coalition government of Premier Theo Lefevre.

More than five million persons voted.

Nuclear Test Exercise Set

HONOLULU (UPI)—An exercise will get under way at Johnston Island in the Pacific this week to determine how fast the United States could resume testing of nuclear weapons should the present test ban ever be broken.

A spokesman for the commander in chief of Pacific Forces said Friday that planes, equipment and personnel were being funneled this week through Hickam Air Force Base in Hawaii in preparation for the tests announced last month by the Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission officials in Washington.

The spokesman stressed that the exercises would be non-nuclear but said use of explosives would be involved in them. He did not believe there would be any physical manifestation outside the immediate vicinity of Johnston Island, 700 miles southwest of Hawaii.

Mother-in-Law of Jack Benny Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The mother-in-law of comedian Jack Benny died Sunday at her Beverly Hills apartment. Doctors said death came from natural causes.

Mrs. Esther Marks, 78, was the mother of actress Mary Livingston.

Funeral services were scheduled for Tuesday with interment in Mount Sinai Memorial Park.

In addition to Miss Livingston, Mrs. Marks is survived by a son, Hilliard Marks of Sherman Oaks, and a daughter, Mrs. Babe Stanley of Beverly Hills.
